ABYSSINIA STRUTS

ITALY LOSING PATIENCE

TRADE DISPUTE

London, July 4. The Rome correspondent of the Morning Post states that differences between Italy and Abyssinia have now reached a critical stage, owing to the fact that despite Abyssinia's obligation to give preferential concessions to the Italian port of Assab in Italian Eritrea, all trade hitherto has been directed to other nations, principally Japan. Meanwhile, Abyssinia insists that Italy shall allow Abyssinian trade facilities at the port. The Abyssinians are reported to be adopting a menacing attitude. They are openly importing small arms and war material from Europe and the Far East, and Ethiopian tribes are being given field training. Negotiations are proceeding in the hope of securing an amicable settlement.—Reuter.

VON PAPEN ALLY EXECUTED

VICE-CHANCELLOR RESIGNS

HITLER FLIES TO NEUDECK

PARTY AND STATE RUPTURE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphische Nachrichten, Ordensburg, 1934. Received July 4, 10.30 a.m.)

Berlin, July 4.

Intense activity is still going on behind the scenes in German political circles. Close secrecy is being maintained as far as possible, but a host of important facts have leaked out. There seems to be little further doubt that Herr Hitler is prepared to disarm the Storm Troops and to deprive them of any important place in politics.

The step is heralded by the unanimous decision of the Cabinet to annul the provision that the Chief of Staff of the Storm Troop must be automatically a member of the Reich Cabinet.

The effect of this decision is to amend the law merging the Nazi Party with the State.

Another dramatic revelation of the proceedings in the Cabinet meeting is that Captain von Papen is likely to cease to be a member.

VON PAPEN'S FATE.

It is learned that von Papen again offered his resignation of the Vice-Chancellorship to Herr Hitler, who did not, as he did last week, refuse it but proceeded by aeroplane to Neudeck at 3 p.m. to secure President Hindenburg's permission to accept it.

The Cabinet is meeting again tomorrow afternoon and it is stated in authoritative quarters that General Goering is most likely to be Captain von Papen's successor. The Ministry of Propaganda informed the United Press that forty-six had been executed up to late yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon.

VON PAPEN ALLY SHOT.

No official list of the names has been issued but it is learned that Edgar Jung, close associate of Captain von Papen, was among those executed.

Edgar Jung was arrested by the secret police last week, before the Hitler swoop. It appears that he was responsible for the collection of the material upon which the Vice-Chancellor based his Neudeck criticism of the Nazi regime. It is also alleged that Jung made derogatory remarks about Hitler. It is also significant that although Captain von Papen and Hitler ostensibly patched up their differences last week, von Papen was unable to secure the release of Jung.

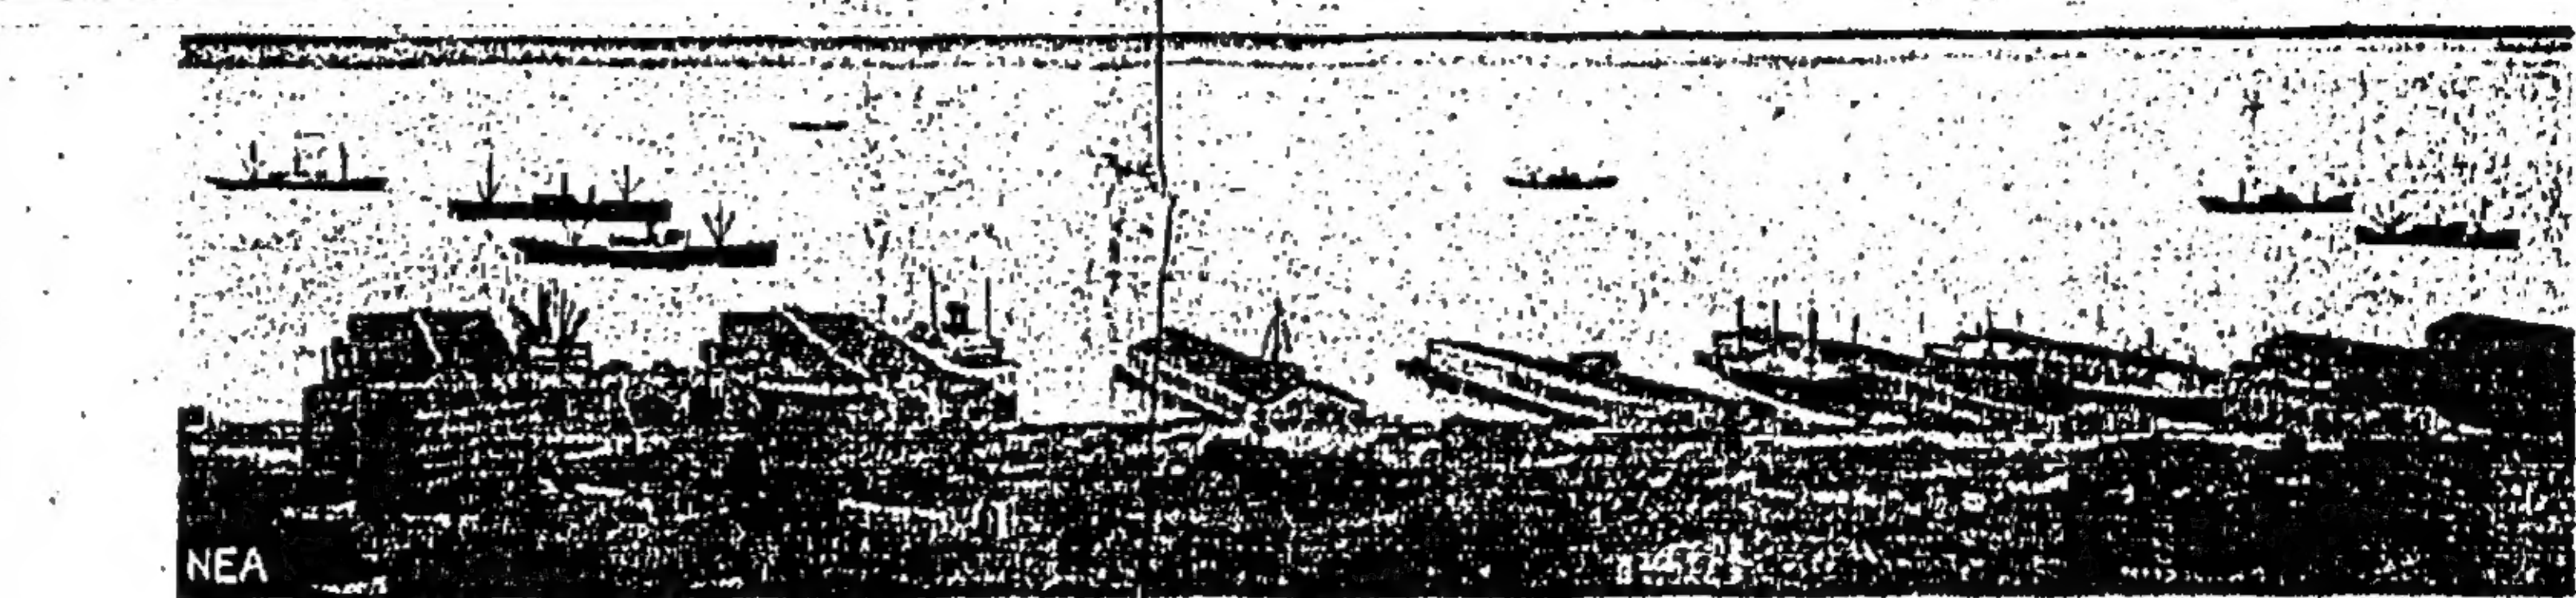

CATHOLIC VICTIM.

Another victim was Gustav von Kahr, Catholic leader in Munich. It is reliably learned, too, that Colonel von Bredon, General von Schleicher's former chief lieutenant, was shot during the week-end.—United Press.

Berlin, July 3.

The only interesting revelation in the official communiqué which was issued at the conclusion of a prolonged Cabinet meeting, was that Herr Hitler informed the Cabinet that lightning action had been necessary.

It had not been taken, there would have been danger to the

While the wrangle over settlement of the Pacific coast longshoremen's strike goes on, over fifty ships in San Francisco alone remain tied up at piers or in midstream. A like situation exists in Portland, San Pedro and Seattle, Wash.

Naval Agreement Outlook

MR. BALDWIN STILL HOPEFUL

London, July 3.

Referring in the course of a Parliamentary answer to the bilateral discussions which are proceeding preparatory to next year's Naval Conference, Mr. Stanley Baldwin said that world conditions were now, in many ways, more difficult than at the time of the London Conference.

It was, therefore, more than ever necessary to survey all the ground on which they had agreed before the conference because the deterioration of certain conditions in the world made it all more necessary. In the view of the British Government, that the conference should meet and that it should achieve some end.

Discussions were taking place and would continue between some of the participating nations, the sole object being to explore the ground so that it might be possible for the conference to meet and to have a successful issue.

Any widespread premature discussion on the tentative proposals put forward in feeling the way might very easily create such a prejudice in some countries as would entirely defeat the object at present shared by all the members of conference, which was to get together and do some good work.—British Wireless.

SEVERE FLOODS IN KIANGSU

TORRENTIAL RAIN FOR THREE DAYS

Haichow, July 4.

Widespread flooding has occurred in northern Kiangsu Province, following uninterrupted torrential rains for the past three days, causing a swift and abnormal rise in all rivers.

Bursting of dykes is occurring at numerous points, inundating many villages and the cities of Kan-yu and Ching-kow.

The water rushed into the walled city of Ching-kow so abruptly on Monday night that the inhabitants were taken by surprise and many of them were drowned.

Many others are believed to have been killed or buried alive among debris as the result of the collapse of houses.

Thousands of villagers have been rendered homeless and compelled to seek refuge in the neighbouring districts in higher country. Messages have reached Shanghai requesting emergency relief.—Central News.

State and many thousands of lives lost.

FORTY-SIX EXECUTED.

The Minister of Defence thanked Herr Hitler for his courageous act and for saving the country from civil war. He reaffirmed the complete loyalty of the Cabinet.

An official list of those executed is to be published shortly. It is learned that it will contain forty-six names.—Reuter.

In the course of a statement at the Central Magistracy this morning, the Second Magistrate, Mr. Macfadyen, announced that fines for offences against the regulations under the Dogs Ordinance are being increased.

Mr. Macfadyen said:—With reference to offences against the Dogs Ordinance, fines generally will be raised to $10 as from July 1st. In cases where the Court is satisfied that the dog was at large in a public place, and was a source of danger to the public, the minimum fine will be $25, as from July 1st.

This follows a similar announcement recently made at the Kowloon Magistracy.

A report has been made by Ching Wa-ching that he was bitten on Saturday near the Western Market by a dog which has not been traced. The man has entered the Government Civil Hospital for precautionary treatment.

VIOLENT RIOTS ON WATERFRONT

SAN FRANCISCO WAR FLARES UP IN FIERCE FIGHTING

FORCIBLE ATTEMPT TO OPEN PORT

San Francisco, July 3.

The bitter war that was threatened when San Francisco industrialists rejected the demands of the striking longshoremen last week and announced their intention of attempting forcibly to open the port, flared up to-day in scenes of unparalleled violence.

Forcible opening of the port was attempted tentatively by the loading up of two lorries by "blackleg" workers, and a rush of the lorries at the pickets at high speed, in an effort to break through by imperilling the lives of anyone who made to interfere.

Violent fighting between the police and the strikers occurred when the longshoremen braved the danger, boarded the racing lorries and brought them to a standstill, the drivers being badly beaten up.

POLICE AND STRIKERS IN DESPERATE CONFLICT

Rioting on a big scale developed soon after the attack on the drivers of the two lorries which had been driven furiously from the pier in a desperate effort to re-open the port.

Hundreds of armed police were rushed to the scene to the rescue of the drivers and a brutal combat followed.

BOMB BARRAGE.

The police resorted to the use of tear-gas bombs and fired shots over the heads of the rioters, who fought them with clubs and iron bars.

Some of the rioters caught the bombs in the air and threw them back into the ranks of the police and also subjected the police to a heavy bombardment from stones.

SCORES UNCONSCIOUS.

The police then indulged in a series of baton charges in which scores of rioters were knocked out and left on the ground unconscious. In spite of heavy losses, the longshoremen strikers continued to fight furiously and it was not until the police had opened tearing blasts of fire into the ranks of the strikers with riot guns that the rioters were finally driven back.

The wild scenes conform to predictions of probabilities as the result of the exacerbation of feeling among the longshoremen, who have been out for two months, by the Industrial Association's flat rejection last week of the modified terms of the strikers.

EMPLOYERS' STAND.

The employers insist on acceptance of the proposal for settlement that was tentatively approved by the workers' union leaders and employers and then repudiated by the men.

The longshoremen have thrown over their leaders and appointed a "Committee of Ten" from the ranks to represent them. The

DEPORTATION THREATS.

Shanghai, July 4.

A threat to deal very severely with unruly elements among the Japanese community in Shanghai is made by the Japanese Consul-General, Mr. Ishii, in a statement on the recent international incidents.

The Consul-General refers to the assaults on foreigners in Hongkew and gives warning that sharp action will follow repetition.

Meanwhile, twenty-five Japanese have been called before Japanese Consular officials for questioning and seven of them were still under detention last night.

It is understood that they will be deported to Japan if it is found that they were implicated in the riots.—Reuter.

POLITICAL MOTIVE?

Shanghai, July 3.

Closely following the incident at Quinsan Gardens, in which Mr. A. Thompson was assaulted, another incident occurred last night at Hongkew when a French sailor was molested by Japanese.

Fortunately, the incident did not develop seriously.

It is rumoured in some quarters that behind these incidents there is a plan for establishing policing rights at Hongkew by the Japanese.—Central News.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

TOWN AND COUNTRY CLOTHES EQUALLY SMART

THREE-PIECE SUIT OF MARKED WOOLLEN IDEAL FOR LATTER, WHILE DARK JACKET OUTFIT'S RECOMMENDED FOR CITY WEAR

By Marlan Young

New York.—Women who stay in town all summer will have no cause to envy other girls who are fortunate enough to be able to spend the hot months in the country—at least not as far as clothes are concerned. This season, it's difficult to decide which is smarter—costumes for town or those for country.

Any wardrobe, whether its background is to be hot city streets or cool grass and green trees, needs to have one outfit around which others will fit nicely. For country, it may be some sort of a suit with long coat as well as a short jacket. The topcoat can be worn over sports frocks while the skirt can go with sweaters and novelty blouses when it isn't being worn, with its own matching box jacket.

Topcoat Slightly Shorter Than Skirt

For instance, the smart three-piece suit of an interesting water-marked woollen is perfect for country and resort wear. It has a slimy tailored skirt, a double-breasted, hip-length jacket and a matching topcoat that is only two inches shorter than the skirt. Around this ensemble a smart little shopper could build quite an adequate vacation wardrobe. Get twin sweaters to wear with the skirt sometimes; a couple of interest blouses to wear under the double-breasted short jacket and one or two sports frocks in harmonizing shades to wear with the long coat.

When picking a starter for a summer town wardrobe, a girl will do well to get a dark jacket ensemble consisting of short-sleeved dress and matching long-sleeved jacket. And, this year, she can't go wrong on one of the new sheers or a net or a chiffon. The jacket outfit is a shining example of what the "lady who stays in town" should wear.

Cuffs Are Pleated

Silk and cotton net in navy blue makes both the dress and the flatter jacket with elbow length sleeves. These are trimmed with finely pleated cuffs to match the pleated frill that is the jacket's collar. The dark blue slip to wear under the net dress is a few inches shorter than the dress itself and the sleeves of the jacket are unlined. Could anything be cooler?

The wide brimmed hat in navy blue is lined with dark blue grosgrain and which buckles in the front. Navy blue pumps and white painted gloves complete the accessory ensemble.

For variation, a girl could substitute a white hat and white shoes for the blue ones. And blue net gloves with stiff white cuffs would be flattering.

Navy blue net in a silk and cotton mixture makes a perfect jacket ensemble (left) for the hot days in town. The three-piece suit (above) of a beautiful watermarked woollen is ideal for country.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

When you're writing a song for Maurice Chevalier, you must consider the star's accent—and restrict yourself to a vocabulary of only 500 words. That's the problem that confronted Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger, who created the songs for Paramount's "The Way to Love," Chevalier's latest starring picture which is coming on Friday to the King's Theatre, in which he is supported by Ann Dvorak and Edward Everett Horton. "One of the star's chief assets is his accent," Robin declares. "In order to preserve it and ensure that theatre-goers understand the lyrics, we restrict ourselves to simple, short, familiar words." The new picture contains two Rainger-Robin tunes, "I'm a Lover of Paris" and "In a One-Room Flat." Both writers have had experience on previous Chevalier films, Robin having worked on "Innocents of Paris," "Playboy of Paris," "One Hour with You" and "A Bedtime Story," Rainger contributed the music to "A Bedtime Story." The story of "The Way to Love" is that of a Parisian boy whose main ambition in life is to become a tourist guide for his beloved city. He meets a girl who has the job of target in a carnival knife-throwing act. Chevalier finds that she is under the cruel domination of her employer, and Chevalier rescues her. The story tells of the achievement of his ambitions, the growth of his love for the girl, and of his sorrow when she leaves him. How he wins her back, with the aid of Edward Everett Horton, furnishes some of the most amusing incidents that have ever been in a Chevalier film.

"The Mysterious Rider"

"The Mysterious Rider," Zane Grey's twenty-sixth stirring story of the Western plains to be brought to the screen, comes on Friday to the Alhambra Theatre. It is a thundering action tale of the modern South-west, built upon the Presidential authorization for the construction of Boulder Dam, the greatest irrigation project of all time, and the resultant fight against the greed of land-grabbers who seek to evict the ranchers from the valuable land which is about to bring wealth to them. Kent Taylor, youthful Paramount star, makes his featured debut in this picture and admirably acquits himself in a role that is in keeping with the famous Zane Grey tradition. In his supporting cast are Lona Andre and Gail Patrick, runners-up in the famous national Panther Woman contest who received Paramount contracts as a result of their excellent work in this film. Such capable players as Irving Pichel, Warren Hymer and Berton Churchill also have featured roles in the production. President Hoover makes his first appearance in a feature production in "The Mysterious Rider" which opens at Washington with the Presidential address authorizing construction of the dam. The entire cast is of excellent quality. Clarence Wilson, Miles Welch and E. H. Calvert have important roles which they fulfill in outstanding manner. Little, Buster Miles and Cora Sue Collins, two of the most delightful youngsters on the screen, have most appealing roles.

"One Sunday Afternoon"

Few motion pictures can boast the colourful background of "One Sunday Afternoon." Gary Cooper's latest starring picture for Paramount, in which Fay Wray, Frances Fuller, Roscoe Karns and Neil Hamilton are featured. The picture, directed by Stephen Roberts, is now showing at the King's Theatre. One enormous scene is an amusement park which covers nearly three acres. There are the old-time Ferris wheel, the horse-drawn merry-go-round, shooting gallery, doll-races, glass-blowing factory, roller-coaster and concessions of every sort from a pink lemonade stand to a greased-pig show. "One Sunday Afternoon" is a refreshing romance of the early 1900's. With Gary as the star, it concerns a dashing young blade who is blinded for life by love at first sight. Through love-blind eyes he worships a woman who really doesn't exist. This false memory becomes the bitter rival of the girl who gives him all her love and devotion. The secret emotion that rules his heart are laid bare in this story, from the successful Broadway stage play of the same name, written by James Hagan.

"Men in White"

"Men in White," which is showing at the Queen's Theatre, brings not only a romantic new emotional team to the screen, but also one of the most dramatic stories ever filmed. The picture is a faithful adaptation of this season's outstanding Broadway hit of the same name. The dramatic background of the story is a modern hospital, vivid and gripping in the gamut of unvelled emotions which only a hospital knows. Clark Gable and Myrna Loy are teamed, for the first time in screen history, in the leading roles. He is a doctor, in love with his profession, but also in love with an heiress—an heiress who can't understand the inhuman demands of his profession. Although in love with her, he must first be faithful to the sick and wounded in his care. This leads to a momentary breach, a broken appointment. In bitter disappointment, he enters into a liaison with the nurse, Barbara, the role poignantly enacted by Elizabeth Allen. Otto Kruger as a thwarted, disillusioned medic, Wallace Ford, as a frolicking "whee-cracking" interne; Henry B. Walthall as an eminent surgeon, Russell Hardie and Russell Hopton as swift moving ambulance riders—all weave a secondary web of drama around the main plot, each excellent in his part. The play ends on a high note of hope and expectation, the characters having been deeply affected by the brief ordeal of their lives.

"Heritage of the Desert"

CHAPTER XLII

Now the storm which had been threatening all the long evening began in real earnest. The lightning flashed. The heavens trembled under the onslaughts of fierce, shattering peals of thunder. Gypsy shivered, not only because of the storm but because of Tom's last words and the baleful expression he now bent upon her.

"I'm tired," she repeated. "I've had a dreadful time of it. Can't you see that? That awful scene with Derek..." She shut her eyes.

"Don't try to turn me aside," Tom said bleakly. "I want to know what there is between you and Gideon?"

She stared at him. "You know there's nothing at all."

"Ah, but do I? Only to-day Vera..." He checked himself, but she had caught the name.

"D'you mean to say you discuss me with that woman?"

He had the grace to flush, to answer honestly. "Of course, I don't. What do you take me for? But she said something..."

Gypsy felt her temples pounding. There was the beat of slow anger in her blood. Vera...

When would this woman's name cease to enrage her?

In measured accents she asked, "You were with her to-night then? At dinner, perhaps?"

Tom made to feel in the wrong, roared to furious retaliation, shouted, "No, not at dinner. I might have dined with her but no—like a fool, I was being faithful even in spirit to you. I acted like a blithering idiot and she's a nice girl, too. Simple and direct and honest."

"Ha! I like that!" Gypsy said bitterly. "You leave her out of this. She's got nothing to do with us. The facts are that you've been out at a wild party with this man till all hours. I'm sick of it. We might as well admit we're finished. There's no use going on. And now this last hideous mess—to have your name dragged through a scandal! I tell you I'm not having any more of it. I'm getting out!"

She drew herself up. "You can't talk to me like this," she said, her voice shaking. "If you walk out of that door now it will be the end of everything for us."

His hand was on the knob. His face was white with anger. They were like two foes locked in deadly combat. Neither would give an inch. One gesture, one look might have saved them both. Neither would offer it.

Then suddenly it was all over. As the thunder cracked and roared and the flashes of light flickered on and off the door slammed. Gypsy stood unmoving. It was all a bad dream, she kept telling herself. The whole thing—the dinner and Derek's accident and the quarrel... everything. Presently she would wake up and find herself in her own small bed and Tom asleep opposite, his arms flung over his head.

But the clock ticked on inexorably, the rumble of the storm continued, and when she flung the door wide only emptiness greeted her. He had really and truly gone.

She went back into the apartment and stared around her. It was all over, their life together. The plans, the laughter over budgets and books, the kisses, the promises, the shared delights.

"Well, that's that," she said flatly in the silence. It wasn't that she hadn't honestly and sincerely tried to make a go of it but she had failed, even as Lila had. Maybe marriages weren't meant to succeed nowadays. If you went at them in the old-fashioned way (as she had) determined to work and save and cleave to one man, you bored him. If you behaved as Lila had you crashed up in more spectacular fashion.

The crisis left her light-headed. She cried quietly about undressing, so as not to disturb the baby. Her mind felt light and free now, quite apart from her body. She would have to make plans. She would have to spare her family. Daddy...

It was a long time later—an hour perhaps—after she had crept into bed that she began to cry.

"It can't happen as simply as this," she said to herself. "Oh, Tommy—Tommy!"

The day dawned bright, smiling, clean washed after the rain. There were things to do, to keep hand and heart busy. Thank God, thought Gypsy dully, remembering Lila, for things to do. Breakfast to get. Orange juice and cereal and toast and milk for David. She could not eat—she simply could not eat. And bathing David. And waiting, with a sort of stricture at her heart, for the telephone to ring.

But Tom did not call. Not all through the long morning. Elsa came and Gypsy sent her out with the baby in his cab. She made beds and dusted, all with a sick heart. Once she called the hospital, where Derek had been taken and she was told his condition was the same. "No change," said the dispassionate voice at the third floor desk. Hunt telephoned and, in an apologetic tone, said he was sorry if he had butted in last night. Gypsy assured him it was quite, quite all right. She understood. They had all been a little crazy last night, she said, and laughed shakily. Hunt had gone on to say he was lunching with Sue. Thank the Lord, he added with apparent irrelevance, the mess had been kept out of the papers. Gypsy had seen suddenly and clearly what he had meant her to see. He was perfectly willing to play around with a young married woman, beau her to parties, even hold her hand a moment too long at parting, so long as it didn't involve him any further. And he was going to see Sue. Sue would take her advice and be her old gay, careless self with him; they would make it up.

"So that's all right," she said aloud, putting the telephone back into its cradle. Somehow, though, she was not as overjoyed as she should have been. It didn't make her like Hunt better, this realization that the only real feeling he had about Derek's fall was relief that he should have saved his own skin.

"I don't blame him a bit," Gypsy said, of Hunt. Just the same her heart felt sore.

Of Tom she simply refused to think. They had quarrelled before, naturally; but not like this. He would think things over presently. He would be sorry. She would not forgive him at once. He hadn't meant it... or had he? How was she to get through the day?

She called her mother and learned that Daddy had taken his first walk completely alone that morning. "We plan to go up to that place in the Adirondacks next week," the pleasant voice said. "We thought you and Tom might like to stay in the house. It's cool and quiet."

Somehow Gypsy managed to answer normally. She and Tom... next week! How was she to know what next week would bring?

Yesterday the plan would have delighted her. But now—

"I'll let you know," she promised. Somehow she must keep the knowledge of her personal disaster from them. They must not be worried just now.

She dressed carefully and went over to Lila's apartment about two o'clock. Mrs. Bliss was not seeing anyone, Davies told her with a concerned face. There was a trained nurse. They were giving her opiates. Mrs. Bliss had been hysterical.

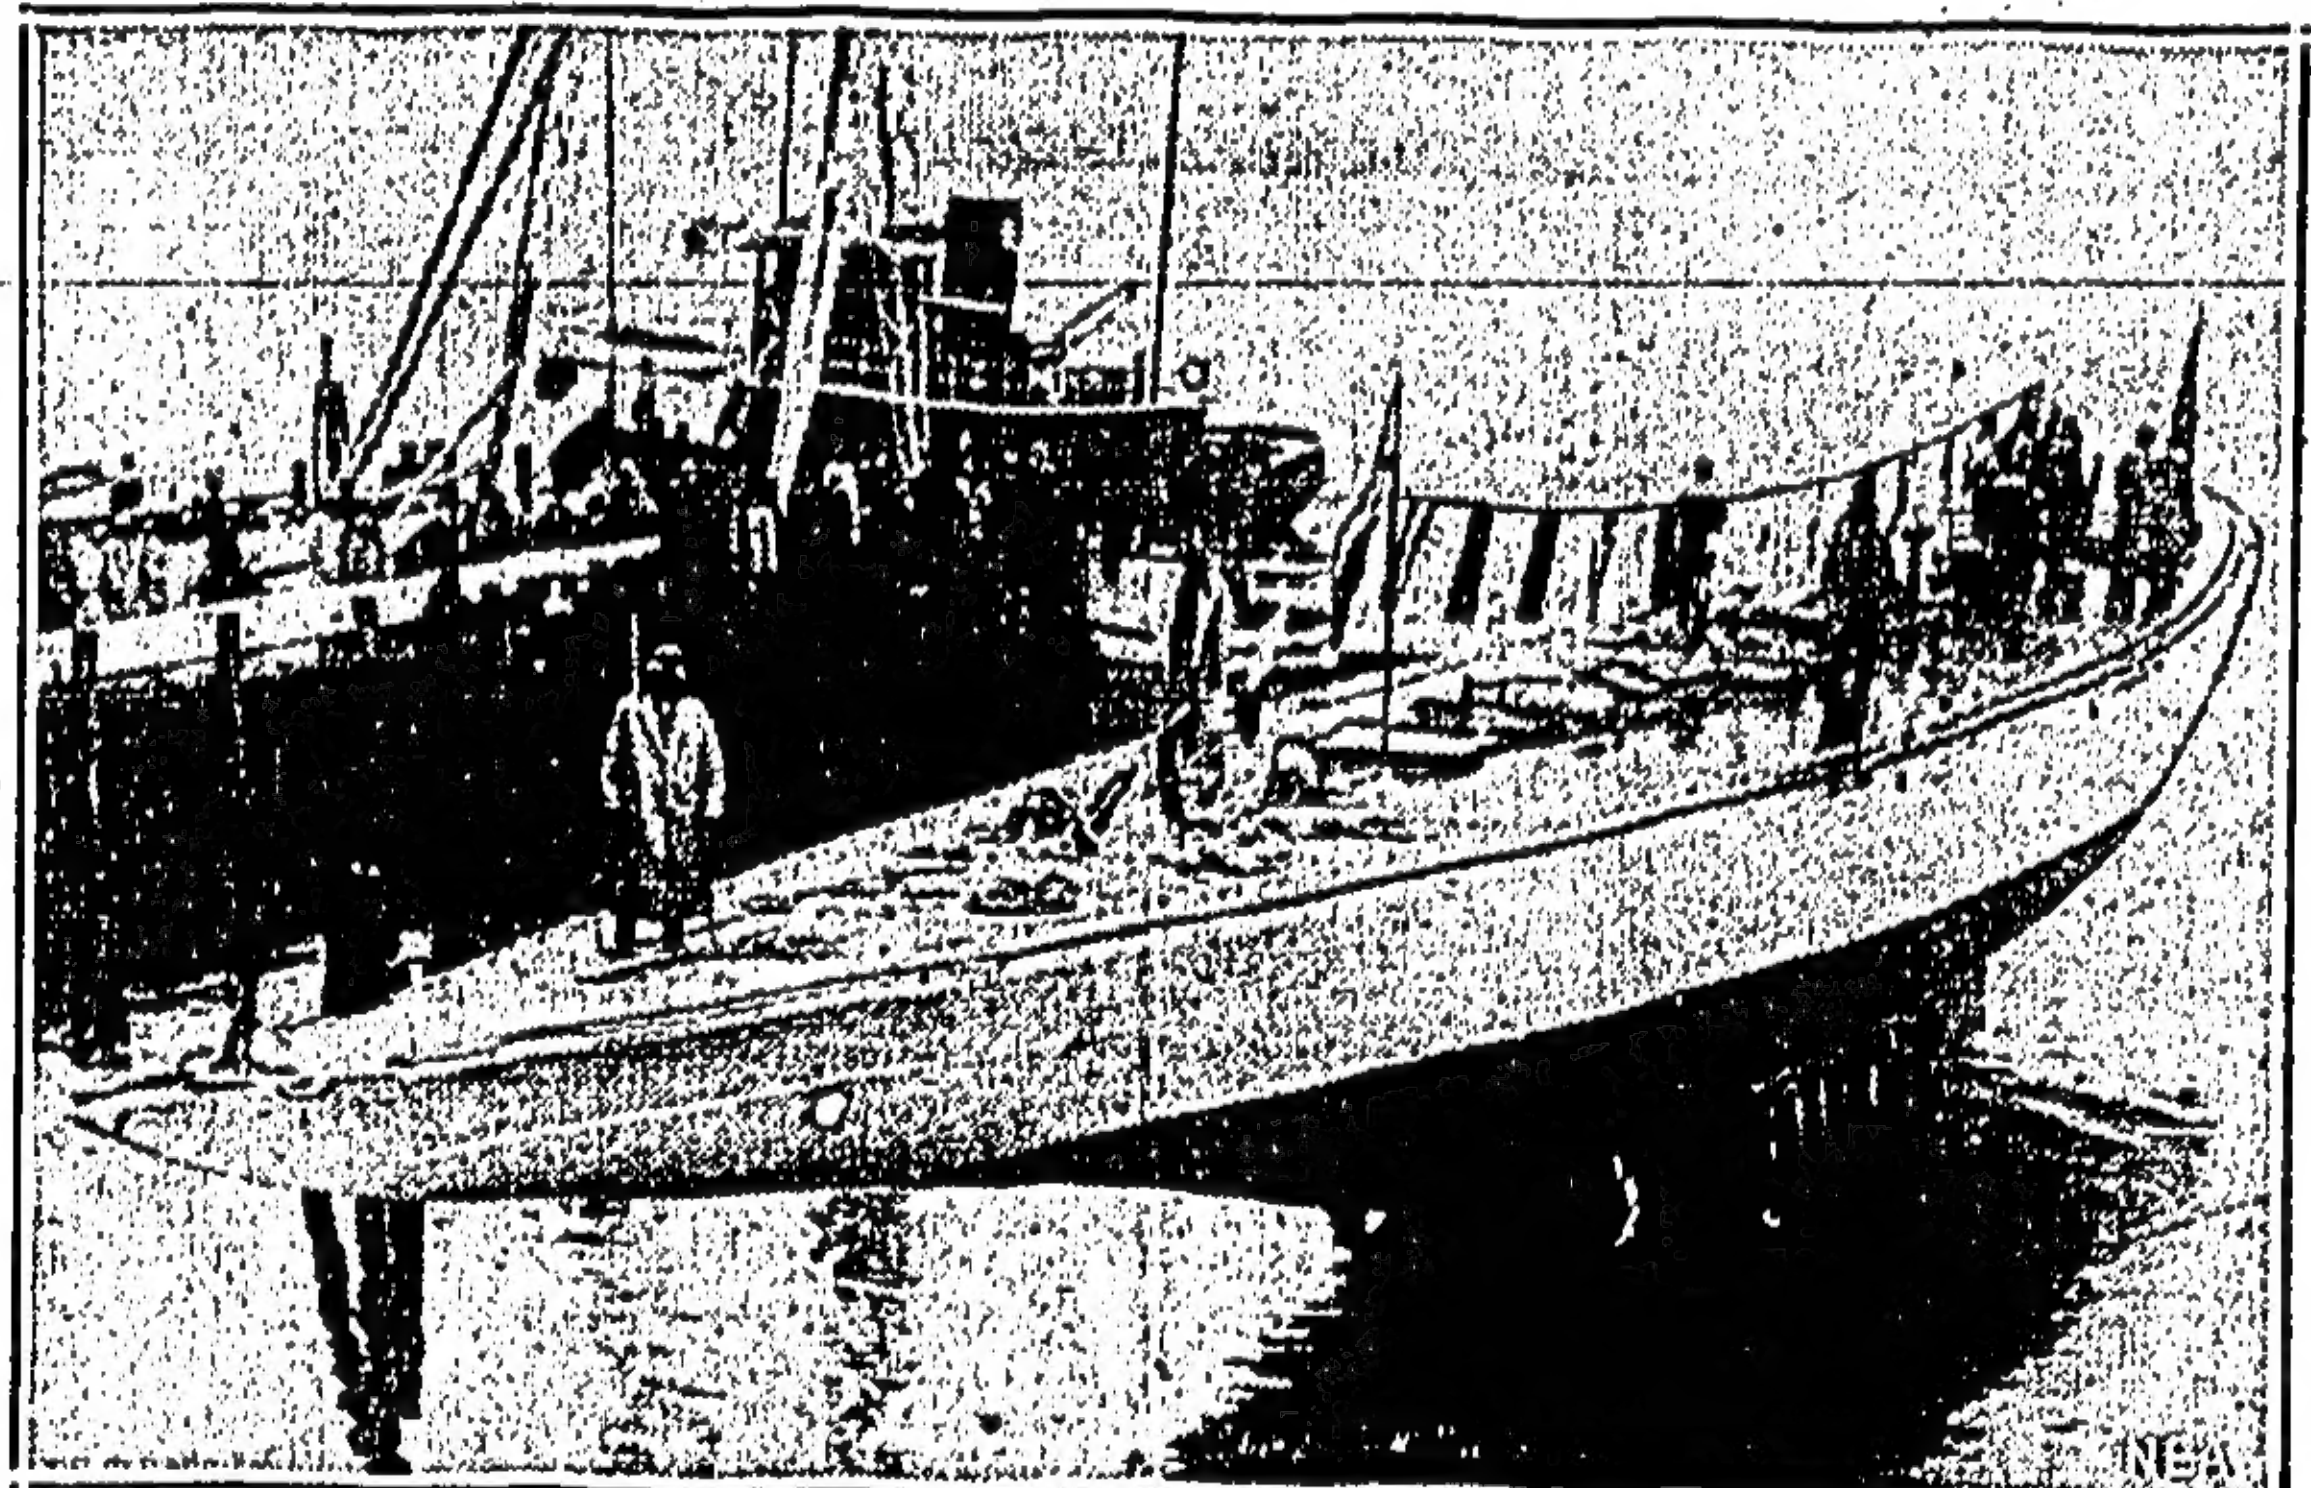

Gypsy went out into the warm, bright sunshine dazedly. Derek dying, Lila frantic, herself all at sea. What a topsy-turvy world!

She kept herself busy somehow. When Elsa brought the smiling and slightly wilted baby back Gypsy had the apartment cool and shaded and dim. Mr. Weaver would not be home for dinner until late Gypsy announced. Anyhow this was one of Elsa's "early" nights. So the maid went away and, in the street far below, one could hear the wild shouting of

THE ANSWER

PIRACY PROBLEM.

REAL BUCCANEERS MUST ROB VICTIMS

London, July 3. Posers were levelled from the Bench to-day when Sir Leslie Scott, on behalf of the Colonial Secretary, was arguing that robbery was necessary to constitute a piracy.

The Lord Chancellor, sitting with five judges, in the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, put a hypothetical case forward. Persons, he suggested, might board a ship and kill everybody, but steal nothing. Would this, he asked, be piracy?

Sir Leslie Scott replied that he deduced from the argument that this was not piracy according to the law of the nations.

Lord Atkin asked: "And what if the ship were shot below the water line and sunk, but nothing stolen?"

Sir Leslie fell back on authorities to show that robbery was an essential concomitant of piracy.—Reuter.

CROWD WAITS HOURS TO SEE HITLER

Berlin, July 3. The popularity of Chancellor Hitler is undiminished. This fact was demonstrated to-day when huge crowds fought their way into the Wilhelmstrasse and, held back by armed police, waited for hours until Hitler appeared at a window to salute a passing platoon. General Goering stood beside him and they watched the unit

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY MEETING PLANNED

The Hongkong Philharmonic Society has issued the following announcement:

"It has been pointed out to us that in our announcement yesterday of the meeting of the members and others interested in the intended production of the concert version of 'Merrie England,' we gave the time erroneously as 9.30 p.m. We regret this mistake."

"The meeting is to be held at St. John's Cathedral Hall on Monday, July 9, at 5.30 p.m."

"The meeting, at which Mr. Anderson Miller, the honorary conductor, will be present, will be not so much a rehearsal as an opportunity for taking stock of the vocal talent available in the Colony and for a discussion of the future plans, including practices, and so on."

PRINCE'S DEATH

HENRY OF HOLLAND DIES SUDDENLY

The Hague, July 3.

The Prince Consort of Holland, Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, died suddenly to-day.—Reuter.

Nation Shocked.

The Hague, July 3.

Holland was shocked to-day by the news of the death of the Prince Consort, husband of Queen Wilhelmina.

The Prince died shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon following a recent fainting fit. Heart disease was the cause of death.

His Majesty had been ailing for some time past; but his death was unexpected. He had lately been showing signs of improvement and this morning was much stronger. Early in the day, his condition was reported as quiet, though he had spent a restless night.

Queen Wilhelmina hurriedly returned to the capital during the week-end when she learned, in Switzerland, of the Prince's recent fainting spell.

Princess Juliana, Their Majesties' only child, is due to return here from London to-morrow.—United Press.

Queen Wilhelmina came to the throne in 1890, the daughter of King William III, and married Prince Henry soon afterwards.

DON'T BLAME EVOLUTION

can make it that as far as we know the intermediate types never existed.

Precisely the same is true of the "evolution" of mind from matter. It may be true, but the facts suggest the direct opposite. Wherever man's remains appear in the geological record, we find that he is already man, surrounded by his arts and crafts. Now, this may be a mere chance—but what, in betting parlance, are the odds?

Measure for yourself the immense gap between the human mind and that of the animals. If there was evolution from one to the other we should expect to find a vast range of human remains dating from the pre-thinking stage—men divorced, like the animals, from all arts and crafts and tools, just animals in human form. No such remains have ever been found.

This, again, does not mean that the theory of Evolution is false. It does mean that as far as we know it is false. It is time that the public knew the truth, and more than time that the politician ceased to cite an ingenious guess in support of wild-cat schemes which depend for their success on the assumption that human nature is in a constant state of change and development.

ARMS TRAFFIC

It is pleasing news to read that the Arms Traffic Committee of the Disarmament Conference has proceeded so far with its task that it has approved a drastic draft convention aimed at regulating the manufacture and sale of war materials. This is the first step in the direction of a much-needed control of armament production, and if it is followed up by universal acceptance of thoroughgoing measures aimed at reducing the dangers to peace inherent in the private manufacture of arms, there should be less fear of future wars than there now is. Before the World War, the manufacturers of war materials had matters pretty much their own way. Under the cloak of patriotism, they argued that they merely supplied the means which enabled their respective nations to defend themselves against possible enemies. But this claim has been shown to be quite untenable by revelations proving that they sell their wares not only to their own country, but to all-comers. Thus it has been disclosed that British troops at Gallipoli in the World War were shot down by shells which the Turks bought from Britain, while French troops during the same war were slaughtered by guns which the Bulgarians and Turks purchased from a great French armament firm. It is noteworthy that whereas world trade for many years past has shown a steady and very large decrease, world export of munitions has shown a much less decrease. Taking 100 as the index for 1928, world trade in 1933 had fallen to 86, but the export trade in munitions had fallen only to 75. Moreover, export trade in munitions only tells part of the story. It has, in fact, been estimated that the average military expenditures of sixty countries during the past five years have reached the enormous sum of £800,000,000 per annum. According to authoritative League of Nations figures, the percentages of world trade in arms and munitions amongst some of the principal countries in 1913 were:—France, 8.8; Britain, 32.8; Austria, 3.7; the United States, 12.2. In 1920, the French figures had risen to 15.4, the British to 37.8, and the United States to 16.6, while Czechoslovakia had more than taken the place of Austria with 4.9. Owing to the labour involved and the difficulty of securing reliable figures, it is hard to

NOTES OF THE DAY

BRITAIN'S REVENUE

The British people are fast becoming incurable optimists, no sharply does the industrial situation contrast with the bleak outlook of even two years ago. It was characteristic of this new spirit, which has little real tangible basis at the moment, trade still being far below that of the pre-depression years, that indications of good revenue returns should be followed by an immediate demand for further cuts in taxation. The Treasury replies that however good the figures for the first quarter of the financial year, they do not represent a sound standard for estimating the results of the year. Mr. Duff Cooper did not even admit that a shrewd idea could be obtained. Mr. Neville Chamberlain, doubtless reminded him that there may be certain armaments bills to face shortly.

RECOVERY CONTRASTS

How different the British recovery method has been from that adopted by the United States leaders, coping with a problem in many respects similar! The British Government has moved step by step, slowly, with the appearance of cautious deliberation. President Roosevelt has aimed straight, with swift, direct blows, at its objectives. Britain began by limiting disaster, the Americans by stretching out their hands to prosperity, London by reducing expenditure, Washington by increasing it. The process of restoring confidence in Britain has been exhibited in two stages. It began with the removal of certain causes of fear, and passed on to the re-establishment of positive hope. The first stage seemed all negative: the cutting down of State expenditure, reduction of salaries and of unemployment benefits, an increase of taxation—a general tightening of the belt. Then, gradually and at first almost imperceptibly, the process of relaxing the pressure, giving place to a spirit of more expansive confidence and even optimism.

MENTAL CHANGE

Looking back on the record we see that this return of confidence has moved step by step with economic improvement. The budget, which was balanced with such difficulty after the crisis of 1931, by April, 1934, easily produced a handsome surplus. The balance of revenue over expenditure during the last year showed a surplus of £31,000,000, by one way of reckoning, £38,000,000 by another. Figures of the registered unemployed, totaling only slightly more than 2,000,000, were less by some 800,000 than they had been at the bottom of the slump. The export trade, too, has at last taken a turn upward. And accompanying these material signs of revival, it is the mental attitude both of the Government and of the people that has changed from stolid determination to buoyancy and eager expectation.

NEW ENTERPRISE

It is as if, during the first two years of Britain's inconspicuous recovery plan, the Government had busied itself exclusively with digging deep and laying the concrete foundations of national finance on which the building was to be erected. And it has often seemed as if it thought that its sole duty was to lay those foundations, and to leave the building itself exclusively to private enterprise. But now some of the girders are ready to be put in position, and of these some at least are of State manufacture. The voting of millions of public money for investment in the Cunarders was the first dramatic indication of the Government's new attitude. Almost simultaneously came the announcement that the Government had decided on a new national housing policy based on the provision of money grants from the Exchequer. The growth of that kind of confidence which expresses itself in new enterprise has arrived at last. The stage of foundation-laying is over. The cranes which were lowering the concrete are now raising the girders.

keep track of the facts, but the latest statistics, those for 1931, show exports of arms totalling over £3,000,000 and of munitions aggregating £3,500,000. It must be remembered also that in those countries which have large public and private factories the production is undoubtedly many times greater than the actual exports. So long as big profits are to be made from this traffic in arms, so long will wars and rumours of wars continue to be encouraged.

DON'T BLAME EVOLUTION

By DOUGLAS JERROLD

"AN assertion," said the great Huxley, "which outstrips the evidence is not only a blunder, but a crime." In consideration of this principle the modern world ought to examine, in the light of modern world knowledge, the popular assertion that evolution is proved.

We have seen a whole range of beliefs and practices grow up under the prompting of the belief in Evolution. We are told that what was good enough for our fathers cannot, because we are evolving, be good enough for us. Forms of government, questions of morals, standards of decency, all are to-day placed in the melting pot in the name of Evolution.

Mr. Baldwin tells us that the world is evolving so fast that what was right yesterday is almost necessarily wrong to-day. Hence the White Paper, a wholesale surrender of rights laboriously acquired, a wholesale denial of responsibilities hitherto honourably discharged.

INDUSTRY IS "EVOLVING."

The rationalisers and the nation-alisers tell us that industry is "evolving," and that therefore small businesses must go. The pacifists tell us that the nations are evolving towards a world-state and that therefore we need no air force.

Marriage for the purpose of begetting children, say the apostles of the Eugenists, was all right yesterday. To-day it is old-fashioned. We must move with the times. Let the State regulate who is to bear children and then let the State support them. The rest of us can amuse ourselves.

Take again—work. We were brought up to think that work was what produced wealth. To-day we are told that we are moving towards a new era in which the main task of mankind will be the organisation of leisure. Work must be restricted if mankind is to become better-off.

To the old-fashioned all this sounds topsy-turvy. But we are up against the universal blind faith of the present day in Evolution. We live in an era of flux. What was nonsense yesterday is sense to-day. It is, indeed, certain that if this faith in Evolution began even to waver, nine-tenths of our post-war policies and ideals would be in the melting pot, for they have, in all of them, one characteristic in common. They all rest on the assumption that what was impossible yesterday and to-day will be possible to-morrow.

ARGUMENTS IN FAVOUR.

Now, let us take the arguments in favour of Evolution first. To begin with, it is evidence of a sort for Evolution that so many people believe in it. People do not as a rule believe in anything intrinsically absurd.

In the second place, there is one fact of Evolution which is beyond argument. We know, beyond question, that the Derby winner is an evolved product. We know that breeding and environment (albeit many generations of both), are all that separate the village idiot from the wisest of mankind. We know that a knowledge of the law of plant heredity has beautified our gardens.

Thirdly, we know that all living creatures have certain anatomical features in common and others which look as though they had once been in common. Fourthly, to leave anatomy behind and to come to more physical characteristics, the resemblance of man to monkeys has probably won more converts to the idea of Evolution than anything else.

WHAT PRINCIPLE MEANS.

This is a fair statement of the real "evidence" for Evolution, but it is very easy to show that none of it is evidence at all for Evolution as generally understood. When we speak of Evolution as a principle we mean two things; first, that mind came from matter or is a function of matter; secondly, that all forms of life, including man, have evolved from one common source; i.e., that there is a direct link or series of links connecting man with the earliest forms or organic life. The whole conception of Evolution, as the word is used to-day, derives from the belief in these two things.

It is precisely in regard to the development of mind from matter and the development of one species from another that there is no evidence at all. The public has been completely and ludicrously misled by talk about the "missing link." They have never realised that all the links are missing, so definitely missing that evolutionists are driven to call that excellent creature known as Archaeopteryx a link, although Vialleton, the greatest anatomist of the twentieth century, denies that he is anything but a perfectly good bird.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that Vialleton is supported in this view by Berg, the most brilliant of the Soviet scientists, who regrettably records that "the deeper our knowledge penetrates into the domain of fossils, the further back recede inter-genetic relations which, as it were, ever elude our grasp."

The public, of course, was right in fastening on to the "missing link" as the key to Evolution. But they were told that it was only between ourselves and the monkey that there was any gap in the chain, and they therefore still assume that, as far as the rest of animal creation is concerned, there is a perfect series of links. It is astounding to have to record, not as a guess but as a fact, that there is no single link in the whole of the fossil remains known to science between any two species.

We used to be told that the fossil record was incomplete. It is curious logic that rests its case upon the absence of evidence, but let that pass. We now know, however, that the fossil record is not incomplete. Mr. Dewar has shown that every one of the modern European animals has left a fossil record, and that though there are only forty-eight genera of European land mammals alive to-day, we have fossil records of no less than eighty genera. Why have the countless thousands of intermediate types failed to fossilize while an overwhelming proportion (and in the case of the land mammals 100 per cent.) of the genera we know have produced an authentic fossil pedigree? The only answer that a reasonable man

The Very Idea!

MORE CHIT-CHAT

By George

WE received another missive from Bane-Aw-fords to-day in which they pursued their postal attack re outstanding account.

They say: Dear Sir or Madam,

"We have to thank you for your letter of to-day ultimo (A.D./1934) and have duly noted and pointed out to our Mr. Edmond the correct spelling and pronunciation of your name."

Whilst, according to this matter the importance which it undoubtedly deserves, we respectfully beg to point out that your letter hardly dealt with the matters at issue and did not enclose (as we had confidently anticipated) a cheque for £200 in settlement of your account. This we feel sure is due entirely to forgetfulness on your part and trust that you will regard this letter as anything but a well-intentioned reminder.

As regards the future of the business horizon we must confess that the only thing outstanding as far as we can see, are our clients' accounts; and the silver lining which you optimistically prophesy will, we are afraid, remain as thin as the linings of our own pockets.

However we are glad to have had this opportunity of exchanging views on the hoped-for dispersion of the business depression and feel confident that you will do your little bit towards this desirable end by transmitting a cheque for £200 to us without delay.

Yours faithfully,
Bane-Aw-fords.

Dear Bane-Aw-fords, (we begin in reply).—Reverting to the little matter on which we had occasion to write to you yesterday (ultimo, of course) we regret to say that your clerk still holds the opinion that our name is spelled Smythe. Byllintone as against our reiterated assertion that the "B" in Byllintone is a small b.

This however, is not the main subject of our communication to-day but we would mention in passing that we are strongly protesting against the suggestion contained in the words "Dear Sir or Madam" which we feel sure is more slip of the pen than of the mind.

We also wish to point out that such terms of endearment are hardly sustained by the further contents of your letter in which you press for payment of an amount of £200 which we have "overlooked."

Such forgetfulness on our part, we would state most emphatically is not, and never has been a part of our policy and we trust that we shall never again be accused of negligence or slackness in our attitude to business houses of such large ramifications as yours. It is on the basis of prompt and punctual reciprocation that the credit of great businesses stands and we trust that we shall continue to go forward, hand in hand, towards the achievement of an era of unexampled prosperity as indicated in our letter of the day before yesterday (ultimo, of course) and ref. A.D./1934.

Yrs affectionately,
A.J.M. Smythe-Byllintone.

Song About Sally the Cat.
Sally the Cat was a prim little cat
And every inch a lady,
Her lover on the mat was the Ginger Cat.

Whose past was rather shady.
He tried all the wiles known to cats on the tiles,
But to love him couldn't force her,
Till he put the "ow" in her "mi-ow."

Then he was the cream in her saucer.
She said, "What is love, mi-ow?"
He said, "I will show you how-w-w-w."

"When I go out with a lady cat
I don't buy her this and I don't buy her that,
"But do we see life on the front door mat?"
"Mi-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow."

She said, "Is it right, mi-ow?"
He said, "Well, it's cheap, any-how-w-w-w."

I don't buy her lunch and I don't buy her tea,
"But the garden's ours and the moon is free."
"Mi-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow."

He said, Love is life, mi-ow.

BRITAIN'S ANSWER TO SHIPPING SUBSIDIES

IMPORTANT COMMONS STATEMENT COUNTER-MEASURES BY GOVERNMENT UNFAIR FOREIGN COMPETITION

London, July 3. An important statement regarding the position of the British Mercantile Marine was made by the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman, in the Commons to-day.

He said the fundamental difficulties, not only of British, but of all shipping at present were the reduction in seaborne trade since 1929 and the striking increase in the Mercantile Marine of the world since the war. Seaborne trade had fallen since 1929 by one third and less than in 1913. On the other hand, merchant shipping had increased by about 50 per cent. since 1914. The results were seen in depressed international freight markets and in the balance sheets of shipping companies.

UNREMNERATIVE RATES.

Tramp freights stood at about three-quarters of the 1913 figure, although running costs were greatly increased. While liner freights, owing to the conference system, stood at relatively higher figures, many liners were running with empty space. In the result, cargoes were being carried on an unremunerative basis, with disastrous results to shipowners.

Very few British shipping companies were covering their running expenses, and fewer still were able to make the necessary provision for replacing their ships as they became out of date. This was not only a shipowner's problem, but concerned in particular ship officers, engineers and seamen, as well as the nation as a whole.

If this state of affairs were due to fair competition, it might be held that the British Mercantile Marine ought to fight its own battles, as in the past, without Government aid, but this was not the case.

UNFAIR COMPETITION.

The increase in the Mercantile Marine of some other countries had been due in large part to the stimulus of subsidies, and that financial help was still being given by many foreign countries. Other countries were, of course, free to adopt what policy they thought fit, but from the point of view of the British Mercantile Marine, competition created and maintained by Government subsidy could not be regarded as fair competition, and British shipowners were entitled to seek the help of their Government if they are not able successfully to defend themselves.

The efforts of the British Government were primarily directed to an increase of international trade. But the revival of world trade might be slow. Passenger and cargo liners were suffering from the falling off in world trade and from subsidised foreign competition. On the other hand, by means of their conference arrangements they are able, to a certain extent, to protect themselves, although it might be necessary for special measures to be taken by the Government in particular trades.

The bulk of tanker tonnage was in the hands of the big oil trading companies, and this class of tonnage had inaugurated an international plan for adjusting supply to demand. The position of coasting and near sea trades raised considerations somewhat different from those applying to ocean going shipping, and no special measures in respect of these trades were proposed at present.

GRANT FOR TRAMPS.

As to tramps, the Government were prepared to ask the House for a grant for vessels carrying tramp cargoes under tramp conditions, the subsidy to be used for defensive purposes and to cost not more than £2 million. This subsidy would be aimed at securing the abolition of foreign subsidies and greater employment of British shipping and of the seafaring classes.

Such a defensive subsidy could be given only on condition that the shipowners formulated a scheme satisfactory to the Government. Such a scheme must prevent as far as possible, the subsidy being dissipated by domestic competition of British ships carrying tramp cargoes, and ensure that it was effectively directed to securing greater employment of British

WILL BRITAIN GO FASCIST?

TWO STUDIES OF QUESTION.

A SYMPTOM IN ITSELF

Berlin, July 3.

One of the questions being most often asked in Germany to-day is, "Will Britain go Fascist?" In the last issue of the monthly, Europäische Revue, two articles were devoted to this question.

The one, written by the British Fascist writer, Mr. W. E. D. Allen, concentrates upon the economic aspect of the problem of Fascism, while the other, the author of which is the editor of Europäische Revue, Prince Karl Anton Rohan, deals with the struggle between Fascism and liberalism.

"Fascism," Mr. Allen declares, "involves an extraordinary economic transformation, which, if successful, is bound to alter the foundations of international trade and to bring about a profound change in the mutual relations of independent nations."

"European countries, including Britain," he adds, "cannot afford to maintain an economic system which more and more turns out to be inefficient, or a political system which, great as its merits may have been in the past, now is seen to be antiquated and incapable of retaining the confidence of nations which are to operate it."

ENGLISH LIBERALISM.

The article of Prince Rohan focuses attention on the decline of British liberalism.

"English liberalism," the Prince writes, "is more deeply rooted in the people's character than any form of continental liberalism; however, even in England, liberalism is becoming more and more an affair of high bourgeoisie and of intellectuals. The masses are deserting it."

"The question whether England will become Fascist," he concludes, "cannot now be answered, especially by a foreigner. However, it is an impressive enough symptom that this question can be asked at all."—United Press.

tramp shipping at the expense of foreign subsidised shipping. That entailed a real measure of organisation of tramp shipping.

YEAR'S EXPERIMENT.

Such a subsidy would be given for one year only, and within that period would be subject to withdrawal if the circumstances which led to its introduction were altered. It would also be a condition that shipowners, through their international organisations and in any other ways open to them, press upon shipowners in other maritime countries the framing of proposals tending to adjust the supply of tonnage in the world to demand, and thus to raise freight rates once more to a remunerative level.

The Government would continue their efforts to secure international consideration of means to place shipping generally on an economic footing, and intended to communicate with foreign countries to ascertain their views on the possibility of international measures to facilitate the abolition or reduction of subsidies and the formulating of schemes for laying up or scrapping superfluous tonnage, or both. The task of preparing the ground for, and of formulating, such schemes must, in the first instance, fall upon the shipowners of the chief maritime countries.

In considering these problems it was essential to have the co-operation of the Dominions and India. They must bear in mind not only the position of tramp shipping, but the position in some of the great liner trades, especially those between different parts of the Empire, which were menaced by subsidised foreign competition. The Government were therefore informing the Dominions and India of the position as they saw it, and were seeking their views as to possible lines of action.

SCRAPPING NOT FAVOURED.

The Government had been prepared to place at the disposal of the shipping industry financial help on favourable terms for scrapping older British cargo tonnage and providing a smaller quantity of up-to-date cargo tonnage, either by construction of new or modernisation of existing vessels. The object was to ensure a reduction in surplus ships and to maintain the standard of efficiency of cargo fleets. There had never been any intention of compelling any shipowner to take advantage

SUBSIDY PLAN

BRITAIN READY TO FIGHT

London, July 3.

Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, told the House of Commons to-day that the Government was prepared to spend £2,000,000 "in defensive subsidies for vessels carrying tramp cargoes" under the condition that the subsidy was not dissipated by competition between British owners of tramp vessels.

The tramp owners must organise, he pointed out. And in this way they will be able to bring pressure to bear upon the foreign owners to arrange a common reduction of the surplus world tonnage.

The Government, he said, would exert its influence upon foreign Governments to induce them to abandon subsidies and reduce superfluous tonnage.

Mr. Runciman declared that the Dominions and India were being consulted in this matter and it now only remained for the tramp owners themselves to co-operate.

Of course, if there were a miscarriage of plans, the subsidy was withdrawable at any time, he said. In any case it was only experimental and would expire at the end of the year.—United Press.

P. & O. To Build Large Addition To Fleet.

London, July 3.

The announcement that the P. & O. Steamship Company is selling its holdings in William Cory & Sons, the big coal company, has created wide interest in financial and shipping circles.

Barings are the purchasers, the price paid to the P. & O. being £5,000,000.

It is understood that the shares will be offered to the public to return four per cent. On the original one pound basis the shares paid 15.5 per cent. for the first three years.

The P. & O. still retains 76,000 shares, thus maintaining its long association with Cory & Sons, but the fact that the company is ready to sell so valuable an asset is generally held as a good augury for shipping prospects in the Far East.

Although the P. & O. directors have not yet disclosed their full scheme, it is no secret that they are planning extensive shipbuilding for the P. & O. and subsidiary companies.

During the war the P. & O. lost 124,000 tons of shipping and though the lost vessels have been replaced for the most part, new ships are still needed to meet the increasing competition from continental shipping between Europe, China and Japan.

It is pointed out, also, by well-informed persons, that Palestine ports, despite a largely increasing trade with Britain, are almost entirely served by foreign ships.—Our Own Correspondent.

of the scheme if he did not wish to do so. Nevertheless, it had not been favourably received by shipowners. The Government were still prepared to co-operate in this matter.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS.

Various suggestions had been put forward for the assistance of British shipping by the reservation of inter-Imperial trades, preferential treatment of British ships or cargoes carried in British ships in Empire ports, differential duties against foreign ships which had the benefit of Government subsidies, etc. These were all measures which had their own dangers, but they might have to be considered if the proposals now outlined did not lessen menace to the British Mercantile Marine.

In conclusion, Mr. Runciman urged the industry to make greater efforts to improve its position.—British Wireless.

What A Pretty Child!

Few people can resist the appeal of a beautiful, healthy, happy child, and what a joy she is to her lucky parents. But it is not only the parents who are lucky; so is the child herself in the watchful parental care bestowed upon her which ensures the health and happiness she enjoys.

Wise parents everywhere know the value of Baby's Own Tablets, and administer them whenever there is need. These little tablets help nature in its work of keeping the child's intestines clean, thus ensuring that the child derives full benefit from the food she eats, growing up healthy and strong.

MACAULEY NOT FOR TEST MATCH.

G. C. Macauley, the Yorkshire fast bowler, who had been nominated for the Third Test at Manchester, has reported himself unfit.

SEAL.

R.A. Losing Football Captain

SEAL LEAVING FOR HOME

(By "Veritas").

The Royal Artillery football team, who were last year robbed of several of their best players during the trouping season, are to be deprived of their captain and outside left on Sunday, when Seal, who has played on the left wing for the division team during the past two seasons, leaves for England on H.M.S. Berwick.

Seal, who played very fine football in the 1932-33 season after making his way into the first eleven, originally appeared in the second division eleven four years ago. He remained with them for two seasons and was then promoted to the seniors in view of his good form.

WON INTERPORT HONOURS. So consistently well did he play in 1932 that he was eventually noticed by the Interport selectors who gave him his place in the team against Shanghai.

Last year with the departure of Combes, Seal was made captain of the first eleven, but the team was only a shadow of its former self, and a disappointing season was the result.

Seal, who on form is one of the best left wingers in local football, gained representative honours while in Hongkong, several times playing for the Army and United Services in charity and other matches.

He is also a track runner of distinction, and recently represented the Brigade in the annual sports meeting at Sookunpo.

Seal is leaving on Sunday to take a special gunnery course in England. It is possible that he will afterwards return to the Colony.

JEWS MAY COMPETE FOR GERMANY.

Assurance Given To U.S. And Britain

London. According to a statement made by the German delegates to the International Olympic Congress held at Athens, Germany will not only allow all Jews to take part in the 1936 Berlin Olympic Games and treat them on an equal footing with other competitors, but will also include in the German national team all German teams with sufficient ability to represent their country.

The question of Jewish participation was brought up by the British delegate, Lord Alford, and was supported by Mr. Garland, of the United States, who asked for guarantees.

It was decided that women should be allowed to compete in the athletic, skating, sailing, fencing and swimming events.

OUTPLAYED FOR THREE PARTS OF GAME

TEST NOMINEES PERFORM WELL: WINLAW'S TWO CENTURIES

MANY THREE FIGURE INNINGS IN DAY OF PROLIFIC SCORING

London, July 3.

Cricket of the most exciting character was seen at Worcester to-day, when the home team defeated Hampshire by six runs after being led by 104 on the first innings and then dismissed for the meagre score of 225 in their second knock.

Hampshire steadily obtained a firm grip on the game, and then unaccountably collapsed before the bowling of Harrison.

Hampshire were called upon to score 112 to win, but a disastrous start soon placed them in danger, and although a thrilling effort was made to snatch the runs, the Worcester attack emerged triumphant.

In addition to Harrison's brilliant bowling which won the match for Worcester, the other outstanding individual performance of the match was a century by the veteran Phillip Mead.

The whole of the first class cricket programme was featured by batting performances.

WINLAW'S TWO 100'S.

R. de W.K. Winlaw, the Cambridge batsman, achieved the notable distinction of scoring a century in both innings against Glamorgan.

Winlaw's batting has been such as to make him the outstanding Varsity cricketer of the season. He contributed 108 to the Cantabs' first innings aggregate of 289, and out of their second score of 265 for two, Winlaw hit up 109 not out. G.W. Parker just reached the three figure mark before dismissal.

Glamorgan easily saved by the same by leading by one run on the first innings. Duckfield hit up another century.

There was some prolific scoring in the Oxford v M.C.C. encounter. The M.C.C. initial score of 393 did not daunt the Varsity, who thanks to Tindall (113) and J.W. Seamer (105) hit up 297 in reply. A typical Hendren-Hearne partnership in the second innings made the result a draw, the M.C.C. finishing with 265 for 4. Both the M.C.C. batsmen scored centuries.

HAMMOND BLOSSOMS OUT.

Walter Hammond came into his own for Gloucester in the opening match-of-the-Tunbridge Wells festival, and thanks to his brilliant 290, Gloucester were able to win by an innings.

Northants scored a surprising, but none the less deserving victory over Warwickshire, which was due almost entirely to Partridge, who bowled magnificently in Warwick's second innings to capture 9 for 66. Up to that time the game had been going against Northants, but Partridge quickly altered the position, and in a keen finish, Northants won with 59 runs to spare.

Sussex lost valuable first innings points to Lancashire, Paynter celebrating his Test nomination with an innings of 157 not out. Sussex made a praiseworthy effort to beat the Lancashire total of 359, but finished 30 short. The match finally ended in a tame draw.

Yorkshire had to be satisfied with first innings points against Notts, but the match saw Bowes continue his excellent bowling form, the fast merchant taking 6 for 48. In reply to Notts' 246, Yorkshire hit up 300, and although Notts were again out for 225, time did not permit of the champions scoring an outright win.

Seats Become Priceless At Wimbledon

THOUSANDS OF POUNDS RETURNED TO WOULD-BE SPECTATORS

Wimbledon, June 27. Seats at the current Wimbledon tennis tournament are at a premium, as more than 15,000 pounds sterling, or about $75,000, was returned in advance to unsuccessful applicants for tickets for the British championships, which opened Monday.

This is 5,000 pounds more than last year and constitutes a record since 1930, the first year that applicants were limited to two seats. And this year they have made books on the men's singles contenders, just as though they were race horses. One prominent firm of London bookmakers circulated its clients long in advance with the announcement it would take such bets.

This is the first time that British tennis has been deemed worthy of the attention of the betting fraternity, and tennis followers are wondering if the time will come when bookmakers are allowed to invade the almost sacred precincts of Wimbledon.

The circular gave an alphabetical list of prominent players, with the odds the firm was prepared to lay against each individual.

Fred Perry, the British ace, is the favourite at 3 to 1 against Jack Crawford, of Australia, the defending champion, and H. W. "Bunny" Austin of England follow at 4 to 1 against.

Good "outsiders" were Jean Borotra of France and the American giant, Lester Stetten, quoted at 20-1. The longest odds, 200 to 1, were offered against R. Miles, M. Slocum, Nigel Sharpe, J. S. Ollitt and J. C. Gregory.

The terms were: "All in; play or not. One half the odds against reaching the final, one-eighth against reaching the semi-final."

ENGLISH WOMEN'S CRICKET TEAM

FIFTEEN SELECTED TO PLAY IN AUSTRALIA

STRONG COMBINATION WHICH SHOULD EASILY HOLD ITS OWN

Fifteen players have been chosen by the Council of the W.C.A. to visit Australia. The team will sail in the P. and O. liner Cathay on October 19, and arrive in Fremantle on November 20.

The players are bearing the cost of the journey between England and Australia, but once they arrive in Australia they become the guests of the Australian Women's Cricket Association.

Miss Archdale has been elected captain and Miss E. Snowball vice-captain.

The chosen players are: Miss B. Archdale, Comp Club, Kent, and South of England. Was at St. Leonard's School and is now a law student. Has travelled in Russia, Canada, and Switzerland, and was for some time the Secretary of the Six Point Group. Miss Archdale is a strong bat and keeps wicket for the Comp Club.

Miss Burleson is a good all-round player, and is just finishing her training at the Anstey Physical Training College. She is playing for the Midlands against the North at Ebbw Vale on June 13.

Miss M. Hild is now at Reading University, and was at Wycombe Abbey School. She is one of the best, if not the best, all-round players in the country. She made 59 for England against the Rest last season, is a fast bowler and a brilliant deep-field. Miss Hild should certainly do extremely well on the hard wickets in Australia.

Miss M. MacLagan is now the Secretary of the Minley Manor Club, and was at the Royal School, Bath. She is a prolific but slow scorer. Her average for this season must be over 100, as she never seems to get out. As a bowler she is splendid on certain wickets, and is a great student of the game.

Miss J. E. Partridge is a good all-round player and is on the games staff at Wycombe Abbey, where the high standard of the cricket is due entirely to Miss Partridge's coaching.

Miss G. A. Morgan is the wicket-keeper and captain of the Civil Service. She was also chosen to play for the Rest last season. Miss Morgan is neat and precise and has no mannerisms behind the wicket, and her batting, if not strong, is steady.

Miss E. S. Snowball was at St. Leonard's School, Bedford P.T.C., and is now on the staff of St. Swithun's School, Winchester.

For several years Miss Snowball has been regarded as the finest wicket-keeper in the country. She is also a splendid opening bat.

Miss Spear is the only St. Paul's girl in the team, and she is now a student at the Dartford P.T.C. Miss Spear was chosen for her bowling, for she can keep an end going indefinitely.

Miss C. Valentine is perhaps the best known bowler in the team, and is one of a family of cricketers. She was at Wycombe Abbey School, is now the captain of the Cuckoo Club, and has just returned to England after a lacrosse tour in America. As a bat, Carol can make runs, but as her method is always attack, her average is not high.

Miss M. E. Richards is an opening bat, careful and precise, a beautiful field anywhere, and a change bowler. She was at Clifton High School, then Bedford P.T.C., and is now on the staff of Alexandra College, Dublin.

Miss E. Green is to be the player-manager. Miss Green is a brilliant field and a steady bat. Is games master at a girls' school in Northwood.

Miss M. Child is another wicket-keeper, but she was chosen for her resolute batting. Miss Child was at St. George's School, Harpenden, then Dartford P.T.C., and is now on the staff of Queen Ethelburga's School, Harrogate.

She has just been made captain of the North team, which is to play the Midlands on June 13 at Birmingham.

Miss D. M. Turner is the Secretary of the Gunnersbury Club, and has done a great deal of good work for the W.C.A. She is a good bowler and a much improved bat.

Miss M. I. Taylor, of Gunnersbury Club, is the fast bowler of the side. Her batting is of the gun variety, but she scores many runs.

Miss J. Liebert is a good all-rounder, and was also at St. Leonard's School. Is now an art student at Busey.

"PLAYING AT SPORT"

Dean Inge And Instincts Of The Stone Age

Dean Inge made piquant reference to the origin of certain sport instincts when he preached at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane-street, London recently.

"Civilised people," he said, "spend much of their leisure solemnly playing at what to the savage is the serious business of life—hunting, fishing, fighting. Our sports and our games—some of our religious exercises—have never got beyond that."

"Any priest who will fish in the minds of his flock for those submerged and unacknowledged habits of intellectual man, which were old before the Christian Church was young, will be sure of his reward—such as it is."

"The Christian religion," he added, "looks for and tries to bring into being a new creation, not to recall into activity half-forgotten instincts that link us with the Stone Age."

Women's Last Four At Wimbledon

FOUR NATIONS REPRESENTED

Ruthless Miss Jacobs

MISS J. HARTIGAN THE NEW PERSONALITY

London, July 3.

The quarter-finals in the women's singles championship at Wimbledon were played off to-day, as a result of which the following players qualified for the semi-finals.

Miss H. Jacobs (America)
Madame S. Mathieu (France)
Miss Joan Hartigan (Australia)
Miss Dorothy Round (Britain)

Apparently Miss Jacobs will have Madame Mathieu as her opponent and Miss Round will meet Miss Hartigan, whose performances at Wimbledon, the first she has ever attended, have been particularly marvellous.

Miss Hartigan to-day accomplished the feat of eliminating Miss Margaret Scriven, holder of the French championship, in a three set match.

The Australian cricketers, having finished their match with Surrey early in the afternoon, attended the All-England Club and saw their countrywomen score a very clever victory.

Miss Scriven only won the first set as a result of her tactics. She served very ineffectively, being guilty alternately of double faults and foot faults. But she discovered Miss Hartigan had a real weakness on the backhand, and on this she concentrated with success.

Miss Hartigan found her driving form in the second set, and was so powerful on the forehand that Miss Scriven as completely outplayed. In the final set the

Miss M. E. Richards is an opening bat, careful and precise, a beautiful field anywhere, and a change bowler. She was at Clifton High School, then Bedford P.T.C., and is now on the staff of Alexandra College, Dublin.

Miss E. Green is to be the player-manager. Miss Green is a brilliant field and a steady bat. Is games master at a girls' school in Northwood.

Miss M. Child is another wicket-keeper, but she was chosen for her resolute batting. Miss Child was at St. George's School, Harpenden, then Dartford P.T.C., and is now on the staff of Queen Ethelburga's School, Harrogate.

She has just been made captain of the North team, which is to play the Midlands on June 13 at Birmingham.

Miss D. M. Turner is the Secretary of the Gunnersbury Club, and has done a great deal of good work for the W.C.A. She is a good bowler and a much improved bat.

Miss M. I. Taylor, of Gunnersbury Club, is the fast bowler of the side. Her batting is of the gun variety, but she scores many runs.

Australian champion served brilliantly, while Miss Scriven's backhand collapsed.

MDME MATHIEU HAPPY.

Madame Mathieu was in her happiest mood against Miss Sarah Palfrey, and staged a great comeback in the first set, which was featured by a series of baseline duels.

The Frenchwoman was the stenter of the two, although Miss Palfrey was faster. In the second set Miss Palfrey attacked very strongly and had Madame Mathieu running from side to side. The American led at 5-3, but then started to overhit and was eventually taken to 8-5 before clinching the set.

Madame Mathieu showed increasing confidence in the third set, and quickly established a good lead which had its effect on Miss Palfrey who lost her touch.

Miss Dorothy Round, the only English survivor, made a bad start against Miss. Payot of Switzerland, being led 4-2, but with her confidence gradually restored, Britain's leading player took four games in a row by means of clever shots down the side lines.

In the second set Miss. Round was immeasurably superior, and going to the net as often as possible, went to her points without any difficulty.

Miss Helen Jacobs was ruthless against Fraulein Cicely Aussem

MISS ROUND.

WIMBLEDON SHOCK

PERRY & HUGHES DEFEATED

BY HOPMAN AND PRENN

London, July 3.

Englishmen were stunned at Wimbledon to-day when Fred Perry and George Hughes, British Davis Cup pair, were beaten in the second round of the men's doubles by Harry Hopman and D. Prens.

Hopman and Prens, who is the former German Davis Cup star, are teaming together for the first time. They were complete masters of the English couple, beating them by three sets to one.

Hopman and Prens quickly carried off the first two sets, and although just as easily losing the third, always gave the impression they had something in hand. They won the fourth set after ten games, the defeat of the Englishmen being crushing in its severity.

The scores were 6-4, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4 in favour of Hopman and Prens.—Reuter.

INVITATION TO PHILIPPINES

TO SEND BOXERS TO JAPAN

Tokyo, June 26.

The All-Japan amateur boxing association voted to-day to invite the Philippines to send six boxers to Tokyo in October to compete in a tournament which is planned to be an Oriental championship affair.

Classes ranging from flyweights to middleweights have been arranged. Filipino stars of the recent tenth Far Eastern championship games at Manila are given the preference in the invitation.

Details, it is understood, are awaiting a visit to Tokyo of Mariano Sangle, Manila boxing promoter who is the president of the Philippine amateur boxing association. He trained the Filipino boxers in the Olympics.

Sangle was in Tokyo last year with boxers from the Philippines and is well known here.

Teofilo Yldersonso and Jikirim Adjaluddin, star Filipino swimmers, were invited recently to take part in the forthcoming all-Japan championship meet.

whom she beat with the loss of two games. Miss Jacobs revealed a repertoire of strokes which had Fraulein Aussem confounded. The American mixed terrific speed with chopping strokes and cut volleys, all of which were delivered with deadly precision.

This match lasted only 33 minutes.—Reuter.

KENT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Seven New Records

Seven new county records were established at the Kent Championships, at Belvedere. Among the record-breakers was W. A. Land (59th Field Co. R.E.), who cleared 6 ft. in the high jump to beat his own county record by 3 in. and won the discus with a throw of 126 ft. 3 1/2 in., nearly four feet better than W. Hertzog's 1929 record. Land also won the javelin title at 63 ft. 9 in. and was placed second to A. Rosser (Polytechnic H.) in the weight. L. G. Parkes, Blackheath H., retained his titles in the 100 yards and 220 yards.

One of the best performances was accomplished by S. G. Woodson (Blackheath H.), who clipped two seconds off R. D. Bell's county

WHITCOMBE BREAKS BRITISH RECORD

Made Lowest Total Ever At Southport

Southport. With a score of 64, Reginald Whitcombe, the youngest of three well-known golfing brothers, playing in the first qualifying round of the Dunlop-Southport competition over the Ainsdale and Healeth courses, achieved the lowest total ever returned for 18 holes in a first-class British championship.

His figures, which lowered the Healeth course record by three strokes and included nine "birdies," were: Out, 344 342 444; in, 444 433 334—64.

Although Whitcombe's feat constitutes a record for the British Isles, it does not apply to the rest of Europe. Aubrey Boomer, in the fourth round of the 1929 French open championship, returned a card of 61.

H.M.S. Berwick arrived here from the North at 7.30 a.m. and on tying up hoisted her paying-off pennant. She leaves for Singapore and Home on Friday for re-fit and re-commissioning.

The French sloop, Savorgnan de Brazza arrived this morning from Swatow, and entering the Harbour fired a Royal Salute of 21 guns which was replied to from Blackhead Fort. A salute of 11 guns to Commodore Frank Elliot was replied to by H.M.S. Tanquer. The sloop will remain in port until Tuesday next.

One case of typhoid was reported to the local health authorities during the last three days ended on Monday, July 2.

AUSTRALIA WINS SPEEDWAY TEST

OUTPACE ENGLISH RIDERS

THRILLING MATCH

Australia won the first of the season's Speedway Test matches at Wembley Stadium by defeating England by 69 points to 38.

The crowd was officially returned at 61,000.

Australia nearly met disaster in the opening heat, for Vic Huxley, their captain and holder of the British individual championship, appeared to bump violently into Les Wotton, the new English "cap," in the rush for the first bend. Both came off, and although Huxley hurt his knee he was able to turn out again for his next race.

FARNON'S RECORD RIDE

Colin Watson, England's captain, rode magnificently in this first race and was only 3-5sec. outside the track record, but his effort was eclipsed by Tom Farnon, the young New Cross star and London champion, who, in the next race, knocked exactly 1sec. off Frank Pearce's record of 78.2sec., made two weeks ago.

England secured yet another "first" when Harry Lees was only 1-5sec. outside the new record in Heat 3, but despite the success of the home riders Australia kept on annexing second and third places.

Lees was again first home in Heat 5 and, with his team-mate, Gordon Byers, obtaining the odd point, England became five points ahead.

But then the tide began to turn in favour of Australia. In three of the next four heats they scored maximum points, so that when the interval arrived with the ninth heat they were leading by 30 points to England's 23.

Most of the credit for this amazing revival was due to the efforts of Dick Cane and Max Groszkreutz. Australia's third pair, whose brilliant team-work enabled them to score full points in the sixth and ninth races.

A CRITICAL RECORD.

Lees was the only English rider to offer any resistance during this critical period and in beating both Huxley and Lionel Van Praag in Heat 7 the Wembley rider secured his third win and remained the only undefeated rider up to the interval. In each of his three rides Lees beat the previous record for the track.

Australia renewed their onslaught after the interval, and with three "maximums" ahead placed themselves 19 points ahead with six heats to go. Huxley and Van Praag outclassed Watson and Key and crossed the line together in a dead-heat, and the Australian captain at last won outright in his next ride, when he beat Tom Farnon by eight lengths.

The English riders seemed unable to check the continued success of the visitors and, in fact, first place went to Australia in eight of the last nine heats. Lees alone scoring a win for England during the second half. It was never necessary for Australia to call upon the reserves, Frank Arthur and Jack Sharp. Cane and Groszkreutz dropped only two out of a possible 30 points as a pair.

The margin of Australia's victory was a record for these matches, the previous best being at Wembley last year, when England won by a margin of 29 points.

CENTENARY AIR RACE

INCREASING SAFETY MARGIN

Plans for controlling and checking the London to Melbourne air race for the Keopang to Darwin stage are now exercising the Australian race authorities, says Austral News. The co-operation of 48 pearling luggers is being sought to increase the safety margin in the Timor Sea crossing of 480 miles. They would be posted roughly 10 miles apart across the sea.

Preparations for land flying will include the elaborate lighting of control and checking points. Huge beacons will be constructed. Throughout the course, there will be complete wireless control by land lines, and direction finding equipment will be employed. All aerodromes will be marked in accordance with the International Convention regulation.

BOWLS FIXTURES

FURTHER MATCHES IN CHAMPIONSHIPS

GRIMMITT WINS

Further matches were played yesterday in the lawn bowls championships.

D. Rumjahn of the Craigengower C.C. met P. O. Dunne, the Kowloon C.C. player on the Civil Service C.C. green and won by 21 shots to 13. The match was interrupted for a space of five minutes by rain and after resumption Rumjahn scored two shots for victory on the head immediately after the adjournment.

At Taikeo R. C. A. W. Grimmitt, who, since the elimination of U. M. Omar, will be favoured for the title, won through the Second Round against J. S. Logan of the Kowloon B. G. C. by 21 shots to 15.

OPEN SINGLES.

Playing in the Open Singles Championship at the Club de Recreo yesterday T. Armstrong defeated A. G. Steyer in a close game of 21 shots to 20, the match going to 10 heads.

A thrilling finish was witnessed on the Kowloon Docks green where A. E. Silkestone playing A. S. Alves in the same competition found his opponent in great form and was eliminated by 21 shots to 17. In the twenty-fourth head Silkestone was lying four and had a great chance of snatching victory by a single shot when Alves nosed his wood in to take the shot.

TWO POSTPONEMENTS.

As G. Perkins is due to meet C. J. Tacchi this afternoon in the Singles Championship, the tie in the third round of the Pairs Championship in which E. G. Post and G. Perkins are down to play F. J. Jones and A. W. Grimmitt has been postponed and will be re-arranged.

W. E. Hollands and J. J. Gregory have yet to finish of their second round Pairs championship match with H. H. Rose and J. S. Logan so that the arranged match between the winners of this fixture and J. E. Noronha and B. Basto down for today has been postponed.

To-morrow afternoon A. E. Coates, G. L. Buchanan, A. A. Razack and W. V. Field will meet E. W. Simmonds, J. Deakin, F. J. Jones and A. W. Grimmitt in the third round of the Rinks Championship on the Police R.C. green.

SMALL LEAGUE TENNIS PROGRAMME

ONLY TWO MATCHES IN "A" DIVISION

Owing to the funeral of the late Mr. Lo Cheung-shui, father of Messrs. M. K. M. W. and Horace Lo, who have been prominently identified with the activities of the Chinese Recreation Club, the matches in which this Club was to have been engaged in the "A" Division of the League yesterday were postponed.

Actually only two matches were involved. The Chinese R.C. "A" team was down to meet the Indian R.C. at Sookungoo while the Chinese R.C. "B" and "C" teams were to have clashed at Causeway Bay.

These two postponements left only one match down for decision on the Island and one in Kowloon.

On the Hongkong side of the harbour, the Hongkong C.C. entertained the Club de Recreo. The match had to be abandoned on account of rain before either side had secured the necessary points for victory. The Club de Recreo were then leading by 3 1/2 sets to 2 1/2.

Scores: R. H. Wild and H. J. Armstrong (Hongkong C.C.) lost to A. V. Remedios and J. Goncalves 2-6, beat F. J. Remedios and H. A. Barros 7-5, lost to C. A. Barretto and G. A. Noronha 3-5.

A. L. Sullivan and G. W. Sowell (Hongkong C.C.) lost to Remedios and Goncalves, 4-6; beat Barretto and Noronha 6-2.

O. E. C. Marton and T. A. Pearce (Hongkong C.C.) drew with Remedios and Barros 6-6, lost to Barretto and Noronha 5-7.

U.S.R.C. v. C.C.C.

Playing in the "A" Division of the League at U.S.R.C. yesterday, the Craigengower team had gained an easy win when rain stopped play.

Capt. P. S. Cannon and H. D. Tolinton (U.S.R.C.) lost to J. W. Leonard and Y. Hackuma 6-7, beat G. Lal and H. J. Howard 7-5, losing to A. V. Gosano and B. Choa 0-1.

L. C. C. and G. S. Slade and Lt. Massey Dwyer (U.S.R.C.) lost to Gosano and Choa 0-6, lost to Lai and Howard 0-6, losing to Leonard and Hackuma 0-2.

Capt. L. J. Walsh and A. J. Stocker (U.S.R.C.) lost to Leonard and Hackuma 4-6, lost to Gosano and Choa 2-6, losing to Lai and Howard 4-6. On the six completed sets the scores stood at C.C.C. 5 points, U.S.R.C. 1 point.

BANANA COFFEE

NEW EXPERIMENT IN DIETETICS.

Experiments at the Hawkesbury Agricultural College have just shown that a "coffee" can be produced from bananas.

In these experiments, the fruit was peeled, cut in small cross-sections, and treated in a dehydrator. At a temperature of 120 degrees, semi-ripe fruit required 17 hours. A longer drying was necessary for the ripe fruit, which contains more sugar.

Its taste is described as "a creamy cocoa," says Austral News. Many inquiries are being received as to the possibilities of banana coffee. Several doctors are interested in ascertaining whether its nutritive qualities will make it useful in treating gastric disorders, or in building up children, after certain ailments.

NOT CATS AND DOGS

IT RAINED FISH INSTEAD.

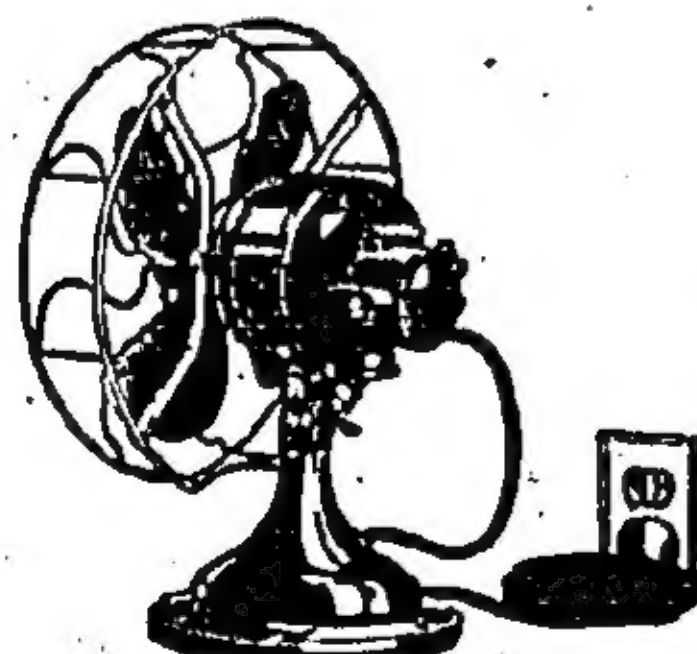

It rained fish during a recent storm five miles from Geelong, Victoria, Australia. After the storm, small carp, some weighing several ounces, were found in fields in the property of Mr. Edward J. W. Littlejohns, of Grovedale.

No dam or water supply is close to the field, so possibly the fish were sucked out of the only lake in the district by a vortex during the storm, and carried five miles in the air before being scattered. Some fish were found hanging in shrubs and several were impaled on a barbed wire fence.

EXTRADITION CASE.

CHINESE WANTED FOR KWANGTUNG CRIME

Proceedings during the hearing of an extradition case at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon were delayed for ten minutes while a search was made for two essential documents, one an order from His Excellency the Governor in the case of Leung Shu-fan, alias Leung Kit-man, and the other a certificate from the Colonial Secretary bearing the name Lam Wan-kai, as head of the Provincial Government, Kwangtung. The papers were located and the case proceeded.

The case in question recalled a robbery in the Yeung Chun district, in the village of Kau Kong, on January 26, 1930, when an armed gang of over 30 men, of which the fugitive was the alleged leader, robbed a shop master of $5,000 in Canton bank notes and $2,000 in silver. The fugitive, Leung Shu-fan, was arrested on a warrant at No. 11 Salkung Road, ground floor, Kowloon City, on June 6 this year.

The case was heard by Mr. Hamilton. The Crown case was conducted by Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, with Chief Detective Inspector Shannon in charge of investigations. Mr. J. B. Prentiss, of Messrs Hastings and Co., appeared for the defence.

Threatening Letter.

Mr. Fraser said that the case was under the Chinese Extradition Ordinance No. 7 of 1889. He had to prove the requisition order from the Chinese Government, the fact that the accused was the "wanted" man, and sufficient evidence to make a prima facie case for a crime of a similar nature in this Colony. The fugitive was wanted by the Chinese authorities in Kwangtung for robbery.

Some time before the actual appearance of the accused a letter was sent to the master of the Man On fertilizer shop in the Kau Kong district asking for a sum of $5,000. No payment was made. There was no evidence that the letter came from the accused or that he wrote it, but Mr. Fraser said he tendered the letter as a motive for the robbery.

A gang of robbers, led by the accused, and armed with mauser pistols and Lewis guns, broke into the house, which had been barred in anticipation of the occurrence. The accused had been in Hong-kong for over a year.

The first witness, Mr. D. Davies, Chief Clerk at the Colonial Secretary's Office, deposed to the requisition order which he received on August 16, 1933, after it had been to Government House and other departments for translation.

Fung Shiu-king, translator at the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, testified to the translation.

Defence Objection.

At this stage, Mr. Fraser said he wished to tender the letter which had been sent to the master of the shop, but his friend objected.

Mr. Prentiss: If the document can be proved I have no objection. Mr. Fraser: It is a question of the admissibility of the document. I do not want to put it in, but am merely tendering it. I cannot prove it.

Mr. Prentiss: Then I must strongly object.

His Worship: It seems to me the point is this. It can be given in evidence that the complainant did receive this letter. It may be admissible that the letter was received, but that does not mean to say that the letter was written by the accused.

Mr. Fraser: I don't want it said against me that I have tried to withhold anything. He received a letter and that is as far as I can say. I am not trying to put it in; I am merely tendering it.

His Worship agreed with Mr. Prentiss, said that he had no idea as to how long the accused had been in Hong-kong.

Mr. Prentiss: I think the prosecution will admit that he has

PUBLIC HEALTH.

NEW LEGISLATION TO BE INTRODUCED SHORTLY

At yesterday's meeting of the Sanitary Board the President, Mr. R. A. D. Forrest, commenting on a letter from the Government relative to the fees for special food licences in the Tai Iang, North Point and Shaokwan districts, said that a new set of ordinances to replace the existing Public Health and Buildings Ordinance was under consideration. As it was difficult to say when the ordinances would be ready, Government had decreed that the alteration in the fees should wait, in order to avoid unnecessary legislation prior to the new ordinances.

The remainder of the business transacted was purely formal.

There were present Mr. R. A. D. Forrest (president), Dr. J. M. Gray (M. O. H.), Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. G. J. Roe (secretary) and Mr. Im Ping-tung (assistant secretary).

been here for eighteen months. Mr. Fraser: I don't want to contest that.

Papers Missing.

The Assistant Attorney General then proceeded to put in the order from H. E. the Governor, directed to Mr. W. Schofield, Police Magistrate, and dated August 17, 1933, and the certificate from the Colonial Secretary, of like date, but the originals could not be found, then.

His Worship adjourned the Court for ten minutes. The necessary papers were traced, and, when the Court resumed, Mr. W. M. Thomson, Magistrate's Clerk, deposed to their production.

Master's Story.

Yung Ching-nam, master of the Man On fertilizer shop, Tin Tong Market, Sunning district, and now living at No. 81, Connaught Road Central, recognised the accused as the leader of the robber gang. Accused used to live at Tin Tong village, Sunning district. He knew him for seven or eight years.

Witness continued: He got his living as a bandit. On January 16, 1930, I returned to my village at Kau Kong. I received a black-mailing letter, which was brought by Leung Wai-ying and Leung Kwai-fan, who are also bandits and belong to the accused's village. I took no action on the letter. On January 26, a gang of over thirty men, led by the defendant, robbed me at my house at Kau Kong. It was about noon. I first saw the robbers when I was standing at my door. When I saw them coming I ran into my house and closed the door. In the house were Leung Hon-chung, Yung Leung-shan, my adopted father, my two mothers, my wife and younger brother. The robbers forced open the door and came in. The defendant directed his men to ransack the place. They were armed with mauser pistols and Lewis guns and some of them carried firearms on their backs. The fugitive carried a mauser pistol on his back and held a Lewis gun in his hand.

The Magistrate: It sounds the wrong way about. Witness: After the men broke into the house, they ransacked. We were not allowed to move. They robbed quite openly, and they stole $5,000 in Canton bank-notes and $2,000 in silver from my cubicle. The money was mine and was used as capital in my business. The robbers stayed in the house for about half-an-hour.

Replying to Mr. Fraser, the witness stated he had had warning of the robbery as he had previously received the black-mailing letter. After the robbers left, witness made a report at the Village Guards Bureau, Kau Kong, and also at the Yeung Chun Magistrate.

After further testimony was given the hearing was adjourned.

children and the scream of taxi brakes. A city apartment is a desolate place of a summer evening.

Gypsy felt it now as never before. After she had got the baby to bed she sat quite alone in the living room, watching the shadows creep slowly up the wall of the courtyard opposite.

"What am I going to do?" she asked herself over and over again. "What am I going to do?"

She glanced at the clock. It was half-past 7. There was still time for Tom to return. Every step in the hall might be his. Every hurrying taxi below in the street might be bringing him, penitent and loving. But she waited long and hope died.

There was one more course open to her now. She might call the office—very often the men worked late in this season—and ask for him. At least then she would know where she stood. Her pride balked at the notion, but anxiety triumphed and at last she gave the number and sat tensely waiting.

There was no answer from the general switchboard, but she had expected that. The operators did not work after 6 o'clock. A long, persistent buzzing. Finally a receiver, somewhere in the great bare stretch of offices, was lifted and a male voice said, "Hello."

Gypsy could hear her heart pounding, pounding. The voice was not Tom's. "Is Mr. Weaver there?"

A pause and the unseen speaker shouted to someone in the room. "How about Weaver? See him any place?"

Gypsy waited. It seemed to her she lived a year in those few seconds.

The voice came close again. "Sorry," it said. "He seems to have lit out."

"Thank you!"

"Any message?"

"No, there's none." She was just about to ring off when the voice said quickly, "Hold on, they say he's what's that? Oh, yes, he's gone out of town. Don't know when he'll be back."

APPEAL FOR FUNDS FOR MACAO RESTORATION

An appeal for funds for the restoration of the Old Protestant Church and Cemeteries at Macao has been issued.

The signatories of the appeal are the Bishop of Hongkong (Right Rev. R. O. Hall), Mr. Douglas Jenkins (American Consul-General, Hongkong), Mr. Herbert Phillips (British Consul-General, Canton), Mr. M. J. Quist (Netherlands Consul-General, Hongkong), Dr. Felix Altenburg (German Consul-General, Canton) and Mr. F. J. Gellion (Resident Trustee, Canton).

The appeal states: The Trustees of the old Protestant Church and Cemeteries at Macao, namely the British and German Consuls General at Canton, and the Netherlands and American Consuls General Hongkong and Mr. F. J. Gellion of Macao (Resident Trustee) supported by the Right Reverend R. O. Hall, Bishop of Hongkong, appeal to the Protestant communities of Hongkong and China for funds to restore the Church and especially the old Cemetery at Macao.

In Lamentable State.

The old Cemetery has fallen into a lamentable state. As a mere resting-place for the dead, the enclosure is a reproach to the Faith to which its occupants belonged. But its condition is the more to be deplored, when it is remembered that within its walls rest the remains of distinguished members of naval, military and civil services, the majority of whom lost their lives whilst procuring for foreigners in China those early privileges which have since become so largely developed. There also lie buried in this Cemetery many merchant pioneers, to whose enterprise and energy existing commerce in China owes its first impulse of life and activity.

The Church was built originally by the East India Company in 1814 as a Mortuary Chapel and in the adjoining Cemetery he buried a number of the early European and American residents in the Far East. These included:

Dr. Robert Morrison, D.D. the first Protestant Missionary to China and first translator of the Scriptures into Chinese. Buried August 1834. His centenary will be observed this year at Macao.

Lord Henry John Spencer Churchill, R. N. Commander of H. M. S. Druid. Son of the Duke of Marlborough; buried June 1840.

Captain Sir Humphrey Le Fleming Senhouse, R. N. Senior Naval Officer British Fleet in China Seas. Buried June 1841.

Edmund Roberts, Esquire. Special Diplomatic Agent of U.S.A. John F. Brooks, M.D. Fleet Surgeon to the U. S. East India Squadron. Buried October 1849.

Sir William Fraser, Bart. Chief of British Factory in China. Buried December 1827.

Thomas W. Waldron, Esquire. Consul—U.S.A. Buried September, 1844.

Lieutenant John Astell, R. N. Buried October 1840.

Lieutenant Edward Fitz Gerald, R.N.S. Mosdefe. Buried June 1841.

S. Burge Rawls, Esquire, U.S.A. Consul Macao. Buried September, 1868.

Captain Daniel Duff, 37th Regiment Madras Native Infantry. Buried July 1841.

Lieutenant Benjamin S. Gaunt, U. S. Navy, U. S. Ship "Marion". Buried March 1852, and the famous artist Mr. George Chinnery, buried in 1862.

Endowment Too Small.

There are also a number of German and Dutch graves. The small endowment of the Trust has unfortunately proved insufficient to preserve the Church and old Cemetery in good condition and the trustees are faced with the urgent necessity of making extensive repairs.

An estimate has been obtained for the necessary repairs, including replacement of the broken-down portions of the Cemetery wall, repairing of cracks in the Church,

ROOSEVELT'S CRUISE.

PLANNING TO VISIT HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Washington, July 3. President Roosevelt, with his two sons, Franklin and John, is speeding southward aboard the cruiser U. S. S. Houston, for a month's cruise out of sight of the United States.

He expects to visit Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Colombia, Panama and Hawaii, probably disembarking at Portland, Oregon.

President Roosevelt's cruise will take him through the Caribbean Sea, the Panama Canal and through the Pacific Ocean as far as the Hawaiian Islands. Return, he will probably visit Seattle, Wash., and possibly Vancouver and Victoria. British Columbia, the far western Canadian seaports.—Reuter.

painting, varnishing and repairs to woodwork, renewal of pathways, and extensive repairs to boundary walls and entrance arch. It is improbable that the work can be completed for less than $3,000, allowing for the fact that one of the trustees has offered to become responsible for certain additional improvements, such as re-cutting the inscriptions, planting trees and setting up fallen head-stones.

The signatories feel convinced that the foreign Protestant communities in China will agree with them in holding the restoration of this historical Cemetery and Church to be a public duty, and they therefore make this earnest appeal in the hope that, in spite of the prevailing depression, a special effort will be made to subscribe the sum of $5,000, in order to place matters permanently on a more decent and reverent footing.

The Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China at Hongkong has kindly consented to receive subscriptions and the Resident Trustee at Macao, Mr. F. J. Gellion, will undertake the suitable disposition of any funds subscribed.

ENGLAND'S TEST TROUBLES

CLARK STRAINS A LEG MUSCLE

LANGRIDGE NOT FIT

London, July 4.
The final composition of England's team for the Third Test starting on Friday, is causing the selectors considerable anxiety.

It is probable that an invitation to attend at Old Trafford may have to be extended to at least one more player—a fast bowler.

It is suggested that Kenneth Farnes may be given another opportunity of proving himself, although the names of Smith (Middlesex) and Gover (Surrey) are again being mentioned.

The new problem created for the selectors, following the injury to Macaulay, arises from the announcement that Clark, the Northants' fast bowler, has strained a leg muscle and will be unable to play.

To add to their troubles, James Langridge, the Sussex all-rounder, is reported to have informed the selectors that owing to an ankle trouble he does not feel justified in risking the strain of a Test Match.—Reuter.

Manifesto Issued By "Revolutionary Committee" of Pressure on Pres. Hindenburg

FIRES OF UNREST UNQUENCHED

"SECOND REVOLUTION GOES ON"

HITLER DENOUNCED AS A TOOL

LONDON, JULY 4.

THE WEEK-END "BLOOD-BATH" IN GERMANY HAS NOT QUENCHED THE FIRES OF REVOLT. THE STORM TROOPERS ARE SEETHING WITH UNREST. THE ATMOSPHERE OF TENSION IS INCREASING.

According to the Daily Telegraph's Berlin correspondent, a revolutionary movement is afoot highly menacing to Herr Hitler.

He declares that he has seen an illegal leaflet that has been issued by the "Storm Troop Revolutionary Committee," which bluntly assails Herr Hitler.

It is also reported that President Hindenburg's message of congratulation to Herr Hitler on his swift action was signed under duress!

LIVES OF VON PAPEN AND FRIENDS THREATENED

The Daily Telegraph contains the text of the manifesto issued by the Storm Troops "Revolutionary Committee," which says, inter alia:

"Our leaders may be dead, but our work for the Second Revolution goes on."

"The shot commanders understood the ideals of the Storm Troops. Those who remain do not."

"Hitler has become the tool of reaction and the industrialists, who desire to crush the workers."

HINDENBURG SENSATION.

A sensation has been created by a statement in the Daily Express, whose diplomatic correspondent asserts that he has learned from highly-placed sources that President Hindenburg signed his messages of congratulation to Hitler and General Goering under threat that otherwise Captain von Papen and other friends of his would be put to death.

The Daily Express also gives a report which it suggests should be treated with great reserve, that Hitler, on the advice of Signor Mussolini, has decided to restore the Monarchy in Germany.—Reuter.

EX-CROWN PRINCE RUMOURS

Laughingly Denied By Equerry

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received July 4, 6.15 a.m.)

Berlin, July 4.

An atmosphere of disquiet continues despite the reassuring statements of the Nazi leaders, and scores of wild rumours are in circulation.

Some of them are apparently quite absurd. As an instance of the wild rumours may be quoted the reply when Reuter's correspondent telephoned to the ex-Crown Prince's residence in the Cecilienhof at Potsdam and enquired of the equerry what truth there was in the reports that the Crown Prince had been expelled from Germany and had gone to Doorn.

The equerry laughingly replied: "The Crown Prince is just having a nap on the drawing-room sofa after his lunch."—Reuter Special.

PARTY AND STATE RUPTURE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received July 4, 10.50 a.m.)

Berlin, July 4.

Intense activity is still going on behind the scenes in German political circles. Close secrecy is being maintained as far as possible, but a host of important facts have leaked out.

There seems to be little further doubt that Herr Hitler is prepared to disarm the Storm Troops and to deprive them of any important place in politics.

The step is heralded by the unanimous decision of the Cabinet to annul the provision that the Chief of Staff of the Storm Troop must be automatically a member of the Reich Cabinet.

The effect of this decision is to amend the law merging the Nazi Party with the State.

Another dramatic revelation of the proceedings in the Cabinet meeting is that Captain von Papen is likely to cease to be a member.

VON PAPEN'S FATE.

It is learned that von Papen again offered his resignation of the Vice-Chancellorship to Herr Hitler, who did not, as he did last week, (Continued on Page 11.)

SUDDEN DEATH OF EX-H.K. MAN

SHANGHAI HEAT WAVE VICTIM

MR. HERBERT FAWCETT

A former Hongkong resident, in the person of Mr. Herbert Fawcett, is the latest victim to succumb to the heat wave in Shanghai, a cable received here this morning indicating that he passed away yesterday following sunstroke.

The late Mr. Fawcett, who was 56 years of age, was employed in the works department of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire in Shanghai at the time of his death. He came to Hongkong in 1914 as a first-class overseer in the Public Works Department, but left the Government service some two years later and became clerk of works to Messrs. Leigh and Orange, architects. Later, he was for a time with the Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., and in 1923 joined Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, with whom he remained until transferred to Shanghai early in 1928.

Of a quiet and retiring disposition, Mr. Fawcett made numerous friends locally, and news of his death will be widely regretted. He leaves a widow, with whom the deepest sympathy will be felt.

Chile is now faced with a revolutionary outbreak that is causing serious trouble to the authorities, although it is not regarded as dangerous, according to messages from Santiago de Chile.

The revolt affects only a small section of the country and has not succeeded in gaining popular support.

One thousand insurgents, forming the main body of the Rural Communist Movement, fought for three hours to-day with the Carabineros which were rushed from Santiago.

The insurgents are still defying the authorities.

JAPAN'S NEW PREMIER

SURPRISE SELECTION

ADMIRAL OKADA CHOSEN

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received July 4, 10.50 a.m.)

Tokyo, July 4.

None of the Japanese political prophets hit upon the correct selection for the Premiership following the resignation of Admiral Viscount Saito and his Cabinet.

Admiral Katsuke Okada, former commander-in-chief of the Combined Squadron, twice Minister of the Navy Department, and a member of the Supreme Military Council, is proceeding to the Imperial Palace at two o'clock this afternoon, when it is expected, he will be instructed to form the new Government.

The selection of Admiral Okada to succeed Admiral Saito was indicated this morning when he received a telephone call from the Palace, summoning him to appear in the afternoon.

Admiral Okada is considered a Moderate and as likely to prove a satisfactory choice for most elements.

He is 66 years of age, joined the Navy 14 years ago and became a Supreme War Councillor in 1924.—United Press.

NEW PRECEDENT.

Tokyo, July 4, 11.38 a.m.
Setting a new precedent, the "Council of Elders" consisting of Prince Saionji, Count Makino (Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal), Baron Ikki, Count Kiyoura (ex-President of the Privy Council and ex-Premier), Baron Wakatsuki (ex-Premier) and Mr. Takahashi (ex-Minister of Finance, met at 9.50 a.m. to decide upon the recommendation to be made to the Throne.

Saito at that time was still favourite for the Premiership although the name of Mr. Yamamoto, the resigned Minister of the Interior, was also mentioned. The Council were credited with the view that the continuance of the ex-Cabinet's policies, especially its financial policy, is vital.

MILITARY DEMANDS.

There are signs that the Army and Navy will hold out for the new government's acceptance of their national policies, involving huge armaments expenditures, before agreeing to nominate the Army and Navy Ministers.

Later, the Throne has summoned Admiral Katsuke Okada who will be instructed to form a Government.—Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

TOWN AND COUNTRY CLOTHES EQUALLY SMART

THREE-PIECE SUIT OF MARKED WOOLLEN IDEAL FOR LATTER, WHILE DARK JACKET OUTFITS RECOMMENDED FOR CITY WEAR

By Marian Young

New York.—Women who stay in town all summer will have no cause to envy other girls who are fortunate enough to be able to spend the hot months in the country—at least not as far as clothes are concerned. This season, it's difficult to decide which is smarter—costumes for town or those for country.

Any wardrobe, whether its background is to be hot city streets or cool grass and green trees, needs to have one outfit around which others will fit nicely. For country, it may be some sort of a suit with long coat as well as a short jacket. The topcoat can be worn over sports frocks while the skirt can go with sweaters and novelty blouses when it isn't being worn with its own matching box jacket.

Topcoat Slightly Shorter Than Skirt

For instance, the smart three-piece suit of an interesting water-marked woollen is perfect for country and resort wear. It has a slimly tailored skirt, a double-breasted, hip-length jacket and a matching topcoat that is only two inches shorter than the skirt. Around this ensemble a smart little shopper could build quite an adequate vacation wardrobe. Get twin sweaters to wear with the skirt sometimes, a couple of interest blouses to wear under the double-breasted short jacket and one or two sports frocks in harmonizing shades to wear with the long coat.

When picking a starter for a summer town wardrobe, a girl will do well to get a dark jacket ensemble consisting of short-sleeved dress and matching long-sleeved jacket. And, this year, she can't go wrong on one of the new sheers or a net or a chiffon. The jacket outfit is a shining example of what the "lady who stays in town" should wear.

Cuffs Are Pleated

Silk and cotton net in navy blue makes both the dress and the flattering jacket with elbow length sleeves. These are trimmed with finely pleated cuffs to match the pleated frill that is the jacket's collar. The dark blue silk to wear under the net dress is a few inches shorter than the dress itself and the sleeves of the jacket are unlined. Could anything be cooler?

The wide brimmed hat in navy blue is banded with a dark blue grosgrain band which buckles in the front. Navy blue pumps and white gauntlet gloves complete the necessary ensemble.

For variation, a girl could substitute a white hat and white shoes for the blue ones. And blue net gloves with stiff white cuffs would be flattering.

Navy blue net in a silk and cotton mixture makes a perfect jacket ensemble (left) for the hot days in town. The three-piece suit (above) of a beautiful watermarked woollen is ideal for country.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

When you're writing a song for Maurice Chevalier, you must consider the star's accent—and restrict yourself to a vocabulary of only 500 words. That's the problem that confronted Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger who created the songs for Paramount's "The Way to Love". Chevalier's latest starring picture which is coming on Friday to the King's Theatre, in which he is supported by Ann Dvorak and Edward Everett Horton. "One of the star's chief assets is his accent," Robin declares. "In order to preserve it and ensure that theatre-goers understand the lyrics, we restrict ourselves to simple, short, familiar words." The new picture contains two Rainger-Robin tunes, "I'm a Lover of Peace" and "In a One-Room Flat". Both writers have had experience on previous Chevalier films, Robin having worked on "Innocents of Paris", "Playboy of Paris", "One Hour with You" and "A Bedtime Story", Rainger contributed the music to "A Bedtime Story". The story of "The Way to Love" is that of a Parisian boy whose main ambition in life is to become a tourist guide for his beloved city. He meets a girl who has the job of target in a carnival knife-throwing act; Chevalier finds that she is under the cruel domination of her employer, and Chevalier rescues her. The story tells of the achievement of his ambitions, the growth of his love for the girl, and of his sorrow when she leaves him. How he wins her back, with the aid of Edward Everett Horton, furnishes some of the most amusing incidents that have ever been in a Chevalier film.

"The Mysterious Rider"

"The Mysterious Rider," Zane Grey's twenty-sixth stirring story of the Western plains to be brought to the screen, comes on Friday to the Alhambra Theatre. It is a thundering action tale of the modern South-west, built upon the Presidential authorization for the construction of Boulder Dam, the greatest irrigation project of all time, and the resultant fight against the greed of land-grabbers who seek to evict the ranchers from the valuable land which is about to bring wealth to them. Kent Taylor, youthful Paramount star, makes his featured debut in this picture and admirably acquits himself in a role that is in keeping with the famous Zane Grey tradition. In his supporting cast are Lona Andre and Gail Patrick, runners-up in the famous national Panther Woman contest who received Paramount contracts as a result of their excellent work in this film. Such capable players as Irving Pichel, Warren Hymer and Bertone Churchill also have featured roles in the production. President Hoover makes his first appearance in a feature production in "The Mysterious Rider" which opens in Washington with the Presidential address authorizing construction of the dam. The entire cast is of excellent quality. Clarence Wilson, Niles Welch and E. H. Calvert have important roles which they fulfill in outstanding manner. Little Buster Miles and Lona Sue Collins, two of the most delightful youngsters on the screen, have most appealing roles.

"One Sunday Afternoon"

Few motion pictures can boast the colorful background of "One Sunday Afternoon," Gary Cooper's latest starring picture for Paramount, in which Fay Wray, Frances Fuller, Roscoe Karns and Neil Hamilton are featured. The picture, directed by Stephen Roberts, is now showing at the King's Theatre. One enormous scene is an amusement park which covers nearly three acres. There are the old-time Ferris wheel, the horse-drawn merry-go-round, shooting gallery, doll-rakes, glass-blowing factory, roller-coaster and concessions of every sort from a pink lemonade stand to a greased-pig show. "One Sunday Afternoon" is a refreshing romance of the early 1900's. With Gary as the star, it concerns a dashing young blade who is blinded for life by love at first sight. Through love-blind eyes he worships a woman who really doesn't exist. This false memory becomes the bitter rival of the girl who gives him all her love and devotion. The secret emotions that rule his heart are laid bare in this story, from the successful Broadway stage play of the same name, written by James Hagan.

"Men in White"

"Men in White," which is showing at the Queen's Theatre, brings not only a romantic new emotional team to the screen, but also one of the most dramatic stories ever filmed. The picture is a faithful adaptation of this season's outstanding Broadway hit of the same name. The dramatic background of the story is a modern hospital, vivid and gripping in the gamut of unveiled emotions which only a hospital knows. Clark Gable and Myrna Loy are teamed, for the first time in screen history, in the leading roles. He is a doctor, in love with his profession, but also in love with an heiress—an heiress who can't understand the inhuman demands of his profession. Although in love with her, he must first be faithful to the sick and wounded in his care. This leads to a momentary breach, a broken appointment. In bitter disappointment, he enters into a liaison with the nurse, Barbara, the role poignantly enacted by Elizabeth Allen. Otto Kruger as a thwarted, disillusioned medical student, Wallace Ford, as a frolicking "wise-cracking" interne; Henry B. Walthall as an eminent surgeon, Russell Hardie and Russell Hopton as swift moving ambulance riders—all weave a secondary web of drama around the main plot, each excellent in his part. The play ends on a high note of hope and expectation, the characters having been deeply affected by the brief ordeal of their lives.

"Heritage of the Desert"

Randolph Scott, Sally Blane and J. Farrell MacDonald head the cast appearing in the movie version of Zane

Grey's action-romance of the west, "Heritage of the Desert," which opens to-day at the Alhambra Theatre. The picture, filmed in remote sections of Utah and Arizona, the setting used by Grey in his novel, follows the Grey story closely. Scott is cast as a young surveyor, who is called to MacDonald's ranch to check its boundaries. Arriving there, he finds Miss Blane, daughter of MacDonald's dead partner, and MacDonald's worthless son planning marriage. The girl and he are soon in love, however, and on the day of the wedding, she flies from the ranch. It is at this time that the band of cattle rustlers headed by David Landau, who wants MacDonald's land for himself, choose to attack the ranch. En route, however, they stumble across MacDonald's son, who is in debt to Landau, and kill him. They take the girl captive, MacDonald, broken-hearted but indurated, and Scott, lead the ranchmen on the mission of revenge and rescue. They are successful in both, and MacDonald gives Scott and Miss Blane his blessing as they tell him of their plans for happiness.

CHAPTER XLII

Now the storm which had been threatening all the long evening began in real earnest. The lightning flashed. The heavens trembled under the onslaughts of fierce, shattering peals of thunder. Gypsy shivered, not only because of the storm but because of Tom's last words and the baleful expression he now bent upon her.

"I'm tired," she repeated. "I've had a dreadful time of it. Can't you see that? That awful scene with Derek." She shut her eyes.

"Don't try to turn me aside," Tom said bleakly. "I want to know what there is between you and Gibson?"

She stared at him. "You know there's nothing at all."

"Ah, but do I? Only to-day Vera." He checked himself, but she had caught the name.

"You mean to say you discuss me with that woman?"

He had the grace to flush, to answer honestly. "Of course, I don't. What do you take me for? But she said something."

Gypsy felt her temples pounding. There was the heat of slow anger in her blood. Vera. Vera.

When would this woman's name cease to enrage her?

In measured accents she asked, "You were with her to-night then? At dinner, perhaps?"

Tom, made to feel in the wrong, roared to furious retaliation, shouted, "No, not at dinner. I might have dined with her but no—like a fool, I was being faithful even in spirit to you. I acted like a blithering idiot and she's a nice girl, too. Simple and direct and honest."

"Ha! I like that!" Gypsy said bitterly.

"You leave her out of this. She's got nothing to do with us. The facts are that you've been out at a wild party with this man till all hours. I'm sick of it. We might as well admit we're finished. There's no use going on. And now this last hideous mess—" to have your name dragged through a scandal! I tell you I'm not having any more of it. I'm getting out—"

She drew herself up. "You can't talk to me like this," she said, her voice shaking. "If you walk out of that door now it will be the end of everything for us."

His hand was on the knob. His face was white with anger. They were like two foes locked in deadly combat. Neither would give an inch. One gesture, one look might have saved them both. Neither would offer it.

Then suddenly it was all over. As the thunder cracked and roared and the flashes of light flickered on and off the door slammed.

Gypsy stood unmoving. It was all a bad dream, she kept telling herself. The whole thing—the dinner and Derek's accident and the quarrel—everything. Presently she would wake up and find herself in her own small bed and Tom asleep opposite, his arms flung over his head.

But the clock ticked on inexorably, the rumble of the storm continued, and when she flung the door wide only emptiness greeted her. He had really and truly gone.

She went back into the apartment and stared around her. It was all over, their life together. The plans, the laughter over budgets and books, the kisses, the promises, the shared delights.

"Well, that's that," she said flatly in the silence. It wasn't that she hadn't honestly and sincerely tried to make a go of it but she had failed, even as Lila had.

Maybe marriages weren't meant to succeed nowadays. If you went at them the old-fashioned way (as she had) determined to work and save and cleave to one man, you bored him. If you behaved as Lila had you crashed up in more spectacular fashion.

The crisis left her light-headed. She moved quietly about undressing, so as not to disturb the baby. Her mind felt light and free now, quite apart from her body. She would have to make plans. She would have to spare her family. Daddy. It was a long time later—an hour perhaps—after she had crept into bed that she began to cry.

"It can't happen as simply as this," she said to herself. "Oh, Tommy—Tommy!"

The day dawned bright, smiling, clean washed after the rain. There were things to do, to keep hand and heart busy. Thank God, thought Gypsy dully, remembering Lila, for things to do. Breakfast to get. Orange juice and cereal and toast and milk for David. She could not eat—she simply could not eat. And bathing David. And waiting, with a sort of stricture at her heart, for the telephone to ring.

But Tom did not call. Not all through the long morning. Elsa came and Gypsy sent her out with the baby in his cub. She made beds and dusted, all with a sick heart. Once she called the hospital, where Derek had been taken and she was told his condition was the same. "No change," said the dispassionate voice at the third floor desk. Hunt telephoned and, in an apologetic tone, said he was sorry if he had butted in last night. Gypsy assured him it was quite, quite all right. She understood. They had all been a little crazy last night, she said, and laughed shakily. Hunt had gone on to say he was lunching with Sue. Thank the Lord, he added with apparent irrelevance, the mess had been kept out of the papers. Gypsy had seen suddenly and clearly what he had meant her to see. He was perfectly willing to play around with a young married woman, leave her a moment, even hold her hand a moment too long at parting, so long as it didn't involve him any further. And he was going to see Sue. Sue would take her advice and be her old gay, careless self with him; they would make it up.

"So that's all right," she said aloud, putting the telephone back into its cradle. Somehow, though, she was not as overjoyed as she should have been. It didn't make her like Hunt better, this realization that the only real feeling he had about Derek's fall was relief that he should have saved his own skin.

"I don't blame him a bit," Gypsy said, of Hunt. Just the same her heart felt sore.

Of Tom she simply refused to think. They had quarrelled before, naturally; but not like this. He would think things over presently. He would be sorry. She would not forgive him at once. He hadn't meant it—or had she? How was she to get through the day?

She called her mother and learned that Daddy had taken his first walk completely alone that morning. "We plan to go up to that place in the Adirondacks next week," the pleasant voice said. "We thought you and Tom might like to stay in the house. It's cool and quiet."

Somehow Gypsy managed to answer normally. She and Tom... next week! How was she to know what, next week would bring?

Yesterday the plan would have delighted her. But now—

"I'll let you know," she promised. Somehow she must keep the knowledge of her personal disaster from them. They must not be worried just now.

She dressed carefully and went over to Lila's apartment about two o'clock. Mrs. Bliss was not seeing anyone, Davies told her with a concerned face. There was a trained nurse. They were giving her opiates. Mrs. Bliss had been hysterical.

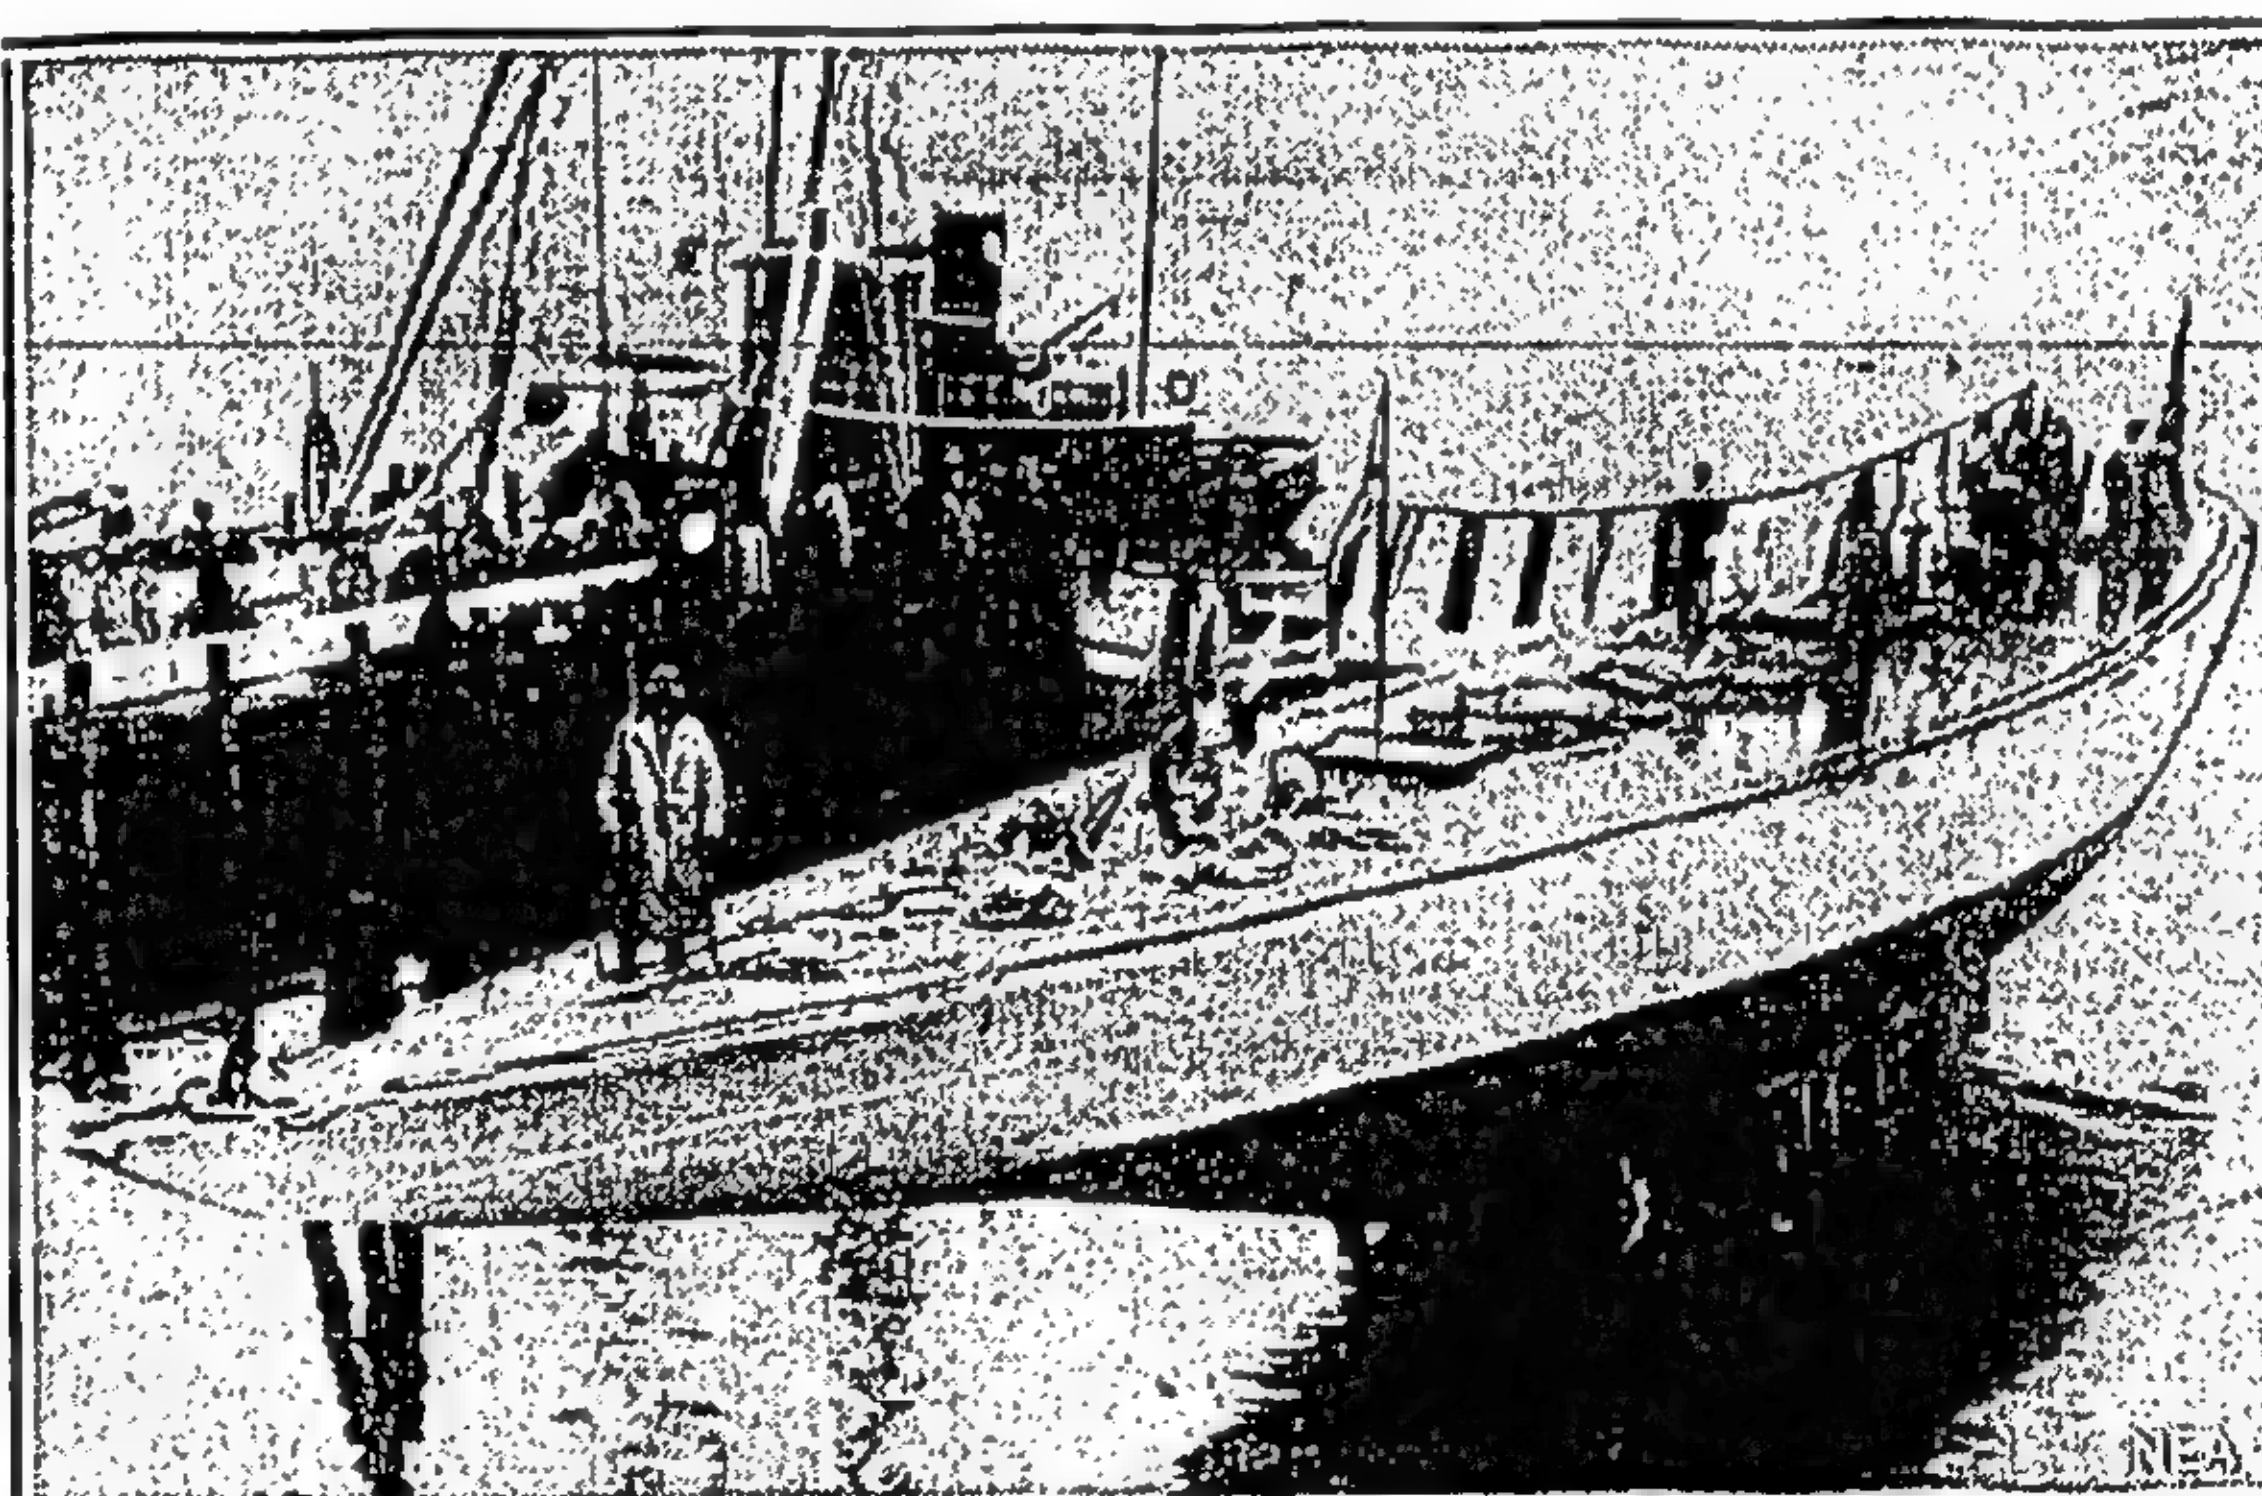

Gypsy went out into the warm, bright sunshine dazedly. Derek dying, Lila frantic, herself all at sea. What a topsy-turvy world!

She kept herself busy somehow. When Elsa brought the smiling and slightly wilted baby back Gypsy had the apartment cool and shaded and dim. Mr. Weaver would not be home for dinner until late. Gypsy announced. Anyhow this was one of Elsa's "early" nights. So the maid went away and, in the street far below, one could hear the wild shouting of

THE ANSWER

ROTARY TIFFIN.

SYMPATHY EXPRESSED WITH ROTARIAN M. K. LO.

Owing to the regrettable absence of the incoming president, Mr. M. K. Lo, through the death of his father, the inaugural meeting of the Hongkong Rotary Club, fixed for yesterday, was postponed.

At the weekly tiffin, held in the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel, Rotarian P. S. Cassidy was in the chair. He regretted the absence of Rotarian Lo, and moved that a message of sympathy be sent to the president in his bereavement. Many of these present knew Mr. Lo. Chung Shiu and all were agreed that he was a man who was held in high esteem in the Colony. He was sure their sympathy went out to Rotarian Lo and to his brothers and sisters on this sad occasion.

Rotarian J. W. Ballantyne, of the Canton Club, was welcomed by the chairman, and referring to Rotarian Lo Luk-chai, the new Canton president, stated that he was the adopted son of Sun Yat-sen and had been his secretary for a number of years. They were hoping for a successful year under his presidency.

On behalf of the Canton Rotarians he expressed sympathy with Rotarian Lo.

The chairman, through Mr. Ballantyne, sent greetings to the Canton Club and hoped they would have a successful year.

Rotarian T. T. Peterson, a new member was also welcomed.

In a brief talk on "trade the chairman said it was a matter uppermost in our minds at the present time. Most of them had heard that Government had appointed a commission which was to enquire into the question of trade and although Rotarian Sir William Shenton may feel rather nervous if it meant that the free trade status was in peril he did not know if they would sympathise with him or be glad that the time had come when they would have to follow the rest of the world. Personally he was still a free trader but he thought they should not close their minds to what was going on outside. It might be that as a result of the enquiry commission report it would be possible to introduce some mild form of protection for the sake of local industries.

Reporting on the recent outing given by the Club for blind children, the Rev. B. G. Powell stated that 38 girls were taken to Repulse Bay. Eighteen were unable to go owing to an outbreak of influenza. He expressed the thanks of the Club to all who had lent materials for the occasion and to all who had helped to make the outing the success it was.

It's the girl who stands on her own who sits pretty.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY MEETING PLANNED

The Hongkong Philharmonic Society has issued the following announcement:

"It has been pointed out to us that in our announcement yesterday of the meeting of the members and others interested in the intended production of the concert version of "Merric England," we gave the time erroneously as 9.30 p.m. We regret this mistake.

"The meeting is to be held at St. John's Cathedral Hall on Monday, July 9, at 5.30 p.m.

"The meeting, at which Mr. Anderson Miller, the honorary conductor, will be present will be not so much a rehearsal as an opportunity for taking stock of the vocal talent available in the Colony and for a discussion of the future plans, including practices, and so on."

LATE MR. LO CHEUNG-SHIU

HUNDREDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE

Over a thousand persons including many of the Colony's prominent residents and Government officials were present at the funeral of the late Mr. Lo Cheung-shiu, which was held yesterday afternoon at the Wing Pit Ting pavilion at Pokfulam.

HISTORIC CEMETERY.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS FOR MACAO RESTORATION

An appeal for funds for the restoration of the Old Protestant Church and Cemeteries at Macao has been issued.

The signatories of the appeal are the Bishop of Hongkong (Right Rev. R. O. Hall), Mr. Douglas Jenkins, (American Consul-General, Hongkong), Mr. Herbert Phillips (British Consul-General, Canton), Mr. M. J. Gellion (Netherlands Consul-General, Hongkong), Dr. Felix Altenburg (German Consul-General, Canton) and Mr. F. J. Gellion (Resident Trustee, Canton).

The appeal states: The Trustees of the old Protestant Church and Cemeteries at Macao, namely the British and German Consuls General at Canton, and the Netherlands and American Consuls General Hongkong and Mr. F. J. Gellion of Macao (Resident Trustee) supported by the Right Reverend R. O. Hall, Bishop of Hongkong, appeal to the Protestant communities of Hongkong and China for funds to restore the Church and especially the old Cemetery at Macao.

In Lamentable State. The Old Cemetery has fallen into a lamentable state. As a more resting-place for the dead, the enclosure is a reproach to the Faith to which its occupants belonged. But its condition is the more to be deplored, when it is remembered that within its walls rest the remains of distinguished members of naval, military and civil services, the majority of whom lost their lives whilst procuring for foreigners in China those early privileges which have since become so largely developed. There also lie buried in this Cemetery many merchant pioneers, to whose enterprise and energy existing commerce in China owes its first impulses of life and activity.

The Church was built originally by the East India Company in 1814 as a Mortuary Chapel and in the adjoining Cemetery lie buried a number of the early European and American residents in the Far East. These included:

Dr. Robert Morrison, D.D. the pioneer Protestant Missionary to China and first translator of the Scriptures into Chinese. Buried August 1834. His centenary will be observed this year at Macao. Lord Henry John Spencer-Churchill, R.N. Commander of H.M.S. Druid. Son of the Duke of Marlborough; buried June 1840. Captain Sir Humphrey Le Fleming Senhouse, R.N. Senior Naval Officer British Fleet in China Seas. Buried June 1841.

Edmund Roberts, Esquire. Special Diplomatic Agent of U.S.A. John F. Brooks, M.D. Fleet Surgeon to the U. S. East India Squadron. Buried October 1840. Sir William Fraser, Bart. Chief of British Factory in China. Buried December 1827. Thomas W. Waldron, Esquire. Consul—U.S.A. Buried September, 1844.

Lieutenant John Astell, R.N. Buried October 1840.

Lieutenant Edward Fitz Gerald H.M.S. Mosdefe. Buried June 1841.

S. Burke Rawle, Esquire. U.S.A. Consul Macao, Buried September, 1838.

Captain Daniel Duff, 37th Regiment Madras Native Infantry. Buried July 1841.

Lieutenant Benjamin S. Gaunt, U. S. Navy, U. S. Ship "Marion" Buried March 1852, and the famous artist Mr. George Chianery, buried in 1852.

Endowment Too Small.

There are also a number of German and Dutch graves.

The small endowment of the Trust has unfortunately proved insufficient to preserve the Church and old Cemetery in good condition, and the trustees are faced with the urgent necessity of making extensive repairs.

An estimate has been obtained for the necessary repairs, including replacement of the broken-down portions of the Cemetery wall, repairing of cracks in the Church, painting, varnishing and repairs to woodwork, renewal of pathways, and extensive repairs to boundary walls and entrance arch. It is improbable that the work can be completed for less than $8,000, allowing for the fact that one of the trustees has offered to become responsible for certain additional improvements, such as re-cutting the inscriptions, planting trees and setting up fallen headstones.

The signatories feel convinced that the foreign Protestant communities in China will agree with them in holding the restoration of this historic Cemetery and Church to be a public duty, and they therefore make this earnest appeal in the hope that, in spite of the prevailing depression, a special effort will be made to subscribe the sum of $5,000, in order to place matters permanently on a more decent and reverent footing.

The Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China at Hongkong has kindly consented to receive subscriptions and the Resident Trustee at Macao, Mr. F. J. Gellion, will undertake the suitable disposition of any funds subscribed.

ARMS TRAFFIC

It is pleasing news to read that the Arms Traffic Committee of the Disarmament Conference has proceeded so far with its task that it has approved a drastic draft convention aimed at regulating the manufacture and sale of war materials. This is the first step in the direction of a much-needed control of armament production, and if it is followed up by universal acceptance of thoroughgoing measures aimed at reducing the dangers to peace inherent in the private manufacture of arms, there should be less fear of future wars than there now is. Before the World War, the manufacturers of war materials had matters pretty much their own way. Under the cloak of patriotism, they argued that they merely supplied the means which enabled their respective nations to defend themselves against possible enemies. But this claim has been shown to be quite untenable by revelations proving that they sell their wares not only to their own country, but to all-comers. Thus it has been disclosed that British troops at Gallipoli in the World War were shot down by shells which the Turks bought from Britain, while French troops during the same war were slaughtered by guns which the Bulgarians and Turks purchased from a great French armament firm. It is noteworthy that whereas world trade for many years past has shown a steady and very large decrease, world export of munitions has shown a much less decrease. Taking 100 as the index for 1928, world trade in 1933 had fallen to 36, but the export trade in munitions had fallen only to 75. Moreover, export trade in munitions only tells part of the story. It has, in fact, been estimated that the average military expenditures of sixty countries during the past five years have reached the enormous sum of $800,000,000 per annum. According to authoritative League of Nations figures, the percentages of world trade in arms and munitions amongst some of the principal countries in 1933 were:—France, 8.8; Britain, 32.8; Austria, 3.7; the United States, 12.2. In 1929, the French figures had risen to 15.4, the British to 37.8, and the United States to 16.6, while Czechoslovakia had more than taken the place of Austria with 4.9. Owing to the labour involved and the difficulty of securing reliable figures, it is hard to

NOTES OF THE DAY

BRITAIN'S REVENUE

The British people are fast becoming incurable optimists, so sharply does the industrial situation contrast with the bleak outlook of even two years ago. It was characteristic of this new spirit, which has little real tangible basis at the moment, trade still being far below that of the pre-depression years, that indications of good revenue returns should be followed by an immediate demand for further cuts in taxation. The Treasury replies that however good the figures for the first quarter of the financial year, they do not represent a sound standard for estimating the results of the year. Mr. Duff Cooper did not even admit that a shadowy idea could be obtained of Mr. Neville Chamberlain's doubtless reminded him that there may be certain armaments bills to face shortly.

RECOVERY CONTRASTS

How different the British recovery method has been from that adopted by the United States leaders, coping with a problem in many respects similar! The British Government has moved step by step, slowly, with the appearance of cautious deliberation. President Roosevelt has aimed straight, with swift, direct blows, at its objectives. Britain began by limiting disaster, the Americans by stretching out their hands to prosperity, London by reducing expenditure, Washington by increasing it. The process of restoring confidence in Britain has been exhibited in two stages. It began with the removal of certain causes of fear, and passed on to the re-establishment of positive hope. The first stage seemed all negative: the cutting down of State expenditure, reduction of salaries and of unemployment benefits, an increase of taxation—a general tightening of the belt. Then, gradually and at first almost imperceptibly, the process of relaxing the pressure, caution by slow but sure degrees, giving place to a spirit of more expansive confidence and even optimism.

MENTAL CHANGE

Looking back on the record we see that this return of confidence has moved step by step with economic improvement. The budget, which was balanced with such difficulty after the crisis of 1931, by April, 1934, easily produced a handsome surplus. The balance of revenue over expenditure during the last year showed a surplus of £31,000,000, by one way of reckoning, £38,000,000 by another. Figures of the registered unemployed, totalling only slightly more than 2,000,000, were less by some 800,000 than they had been at the bottom of the slump. The export trade, too, has at last taken a turn upward. And accompanying these material signs of revival, it is the mental attitude both of the Government and of the people that has changed from stolid determination to buoyancy and eager expectation.

NEW ENTERPRISE

It is as if, during the first two years of Britain's inconspicuous recovery plan, the Government had busied itself exclusively with digging deep and laying the concrete foundations of national finance on which the building was to be erected. And it has often seemed as if it thought that its sole duty was to lay those foundations, and to leave the building itself exclusively to private enterprise. But now some of the girders are ready to be put in position, and of these some at least are of State manufacture. The voting of millions of public money for investment in the Cunarders was the first dramatic indication of the Government's new attitude. Almost simultaneously came the announcement that the Government had decided on a new national housing policy based on the provision of money grants from the Exchequer. The growth of that kind of confidence which expresses itself in new enterprise has arrived at last. The stage of foundation-laying is over. The cranes which were lowering the concrete are now raising the girders.

keep track of the facts, but the latest statistics, those for 1931, show exports of arms totalling over £3,000,000 and of munitions aggregating £3,500,000. It must be remembered also that in those countries which have large public and private factories the production is undoubtedly many times greater than the actual exports. So long as big profits are to be made from this traffic in arms, so long will wars and rumours of wars continue to be encouraged.

DON'T BLAME EVOLUTION

By DOUGLAS JERROLD

"AN assertion," said the great Huxley, "which outstrips the evidence is not only a blunder, but a crime." In consideration of this principle the modern world ought to examine, in the light of modern world knowledge, the popular assertion that evolution is proved.

We have seen a whole range of beliefs and practices grow up under the prompting of the belief in Evolution. We are told that what was good enough for our fathers cannot, because we are evolving, be good enough for us. Forms of government, questions of morals, standards of decency, all are today placed in the melting pot in the name of Evolution.

Mr. Baldwin tells us that the world is evolving so fast that what was right yesterday is almost necessarily wrong to-day. Hence the White Paper, a wholesale surrender of rights laboriously acquired, a wholesale denial of responsibilities hitherto honourably discharged.

INDUSTRY IS "EVOLVING."

The rationalisers and the nationalists tell us that industry is "evolving," and that therefore small businesses must go. The pacifists tell us that the nations are evolving towards a world-state and that therefore we need no air force.

Marriage for the purpose of begetting children, say the apostles of the Eugenists, was all right yesterday. To-day it is old-fashioned. Human nature is changing. We must move with the times. Let the State regulate who is to bear children and then let the State support them. The rest of us can amuse ourselves.

Take again—work. We were brought up to think that work was what produced wealth. To-day we are told that we are moving towards a new era in which the main task of mankind will be the organisation of leisure. Work must be restricted if mankind is to become better-off.

To the old-fashioned all this sounds topsy-turvy. But we are up against the universal blind faith of the present day in Evolution. We live in an era of flux. What was nonsense yesterday is sense to-day. It is, indeed, certain that if this faith in Evolution began even to waver, nine-tenths of our post-war policies and ideals would be in the melting pot, for they have, all of them, one characteristic in common. They all rest on the assumption that what was impossible yesterday and to-day will be possible to-morrow.

ARGUMENTS—IN FAVOUR.

Now, let us take the arguments in favour of Evolution first. To begin with, it is evidence of a sort for Evolution that so many people believe in it. People do not believe in anything intrinsically absurd.

In the second place, there is one fact of Evolution which is beyond argument. We know, beyond question, that the Derby winner is an evolved product. We know that breeding and environment (albeit many generations of both), are all that separate the village idiot from the wisest of mankind. We know that a knowledge of the law of plant heredity has beautified our gardens.

Thirdly, we know that all living creatures have certain anatomical features in common and others which look as though they had once been in common. Fourthly, to leave anatomy behind and to come to more physical characteristics, the resemblance of men to monkeys has probably won more converts to the idea of Evolution than anything else.

WHAT PRINCIPLE MEANS.

This is a fair statement of the real "evidence" for Evolution, but it is very easy to show that none of it is evidence at all for Evolution as generally understood. When we speak of Evolution as a principle we mean two things; first, that mind came from matter or is a function of matter; secondly, that all forms of life, including man, have evolved from one common source; i.e., that there is a direct link or series of links connecting man with the earliest forms or organic life. The whole conception of Evolution, as the word is used to-day, derives from the belief in these two things.

It is precisely in regard to the development of mind from matter and the development of one species from another that there is no evidence at all. The public has been completely and ludicrously misled by talk about the "missing link." They have never realised that all the links are missing, so definitely missing that evolutionists are driven to call that excellent creature known as Archaeopteryx a link, although Valleton, the greatest anatomist of the twentieth century, denies that he is anything but a perfectly good bird.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that Valleton is supported in this view by Berg, the most brilliant of the Soviet scientists, who regretfully records that "the deeper our knowledge penetrates into the domain of fossils, the further back recede inter-genetic relations which, as it were, ever elude our grasp."

The public, of course, was right in fastening on to the "missing link" as the key to Evolution. But they were told that it was only between ourselves and the monkey that there was any gap in the chain, and they therefore still assume that, as far as the rest of animal creation is concerned, there is a perfect series of links. It is astounding to have to record, not as a guess but as a fact, that there is no single link in the whole of the fossil remains known to science between any two species.

We used to be told that the fossil record was incomplete. It is curious logic that rests its case upon the absence of evidence, but let that pass. We now know, however, that the fossil record is not incomplete. Mr. Dewar has shown that every one of the modern European animals has left a fossil record, and that though there are only forty-eight genera of European land mammals alive to-day, we have fossil records of no less than eighty genera. Why have the countless thousands of intermediate types between man and the jelly-fish failed to fossilize while an overwhelming proportion (and, in the case of the land mammals 100 per cent.) of the genera we know have produced an authentic fossil pedigree? The only answer that a reasonable man

The Very Idea!

MORE CHIT-CHAT

By George

WE received another missive from Bane-Aw-fords to-day in which they pursued their postal attack re outstanding account.

They say: Dear Sir or Madam,

"We have to thank you for your letter of to-day ultimo (A.D./19-34) and have duly noted and pointed out to our Mr. Edmond the correct spelling and pronunciation of your name.

Whilst according this matter the importance which it undoubtedly deserves, we respectfully beg to point out that your letter hardly dealt with the matters at issue and did not enclose (as we had confidently anticipated) a cheque for $200 in settlement of your account. This we feel sure is due entirely to forgetfulness on your part and trust that you will not regard this letter as anything but a well-intentioned reminder.

As regards the future of the business horizon we must confess that the only thing outstanding as far as we can see, are our clients' accounts; and the silver lining which you optimistically prophesy will, we are afraid, remain as thin as the linings of our own pockets.

However we are glad to have had this opportunity of exchanging views on the hoped-for dispersion of the business depression and feel confident that you will do your little bit towards this desirable end by transmitting a cheque for $200 to us without delay.

Yours truly
Bane-Aw-fords.

Dear Bane-Aw-fords, (we began in reply)—Reverting to the little matter on which we had occasion to write to you yesterday (ultimo, of course) we regret to say that your clerk still holds the opinion that our name is spelt Smythe-Byllintone as against our reiterated assertion that the "B" in Byllintone is a small b.

This however, is not the main subject of our communication to-day but we would mention in passing that we strongly protest against the suggestion contained in the words "Dear Sir or Madam" which we feel sure is more a slip of the pen than of the mind.

We also wish to point out that such terms of endearment are hardly sustained by the further contents of your letter in which you press for payment of an amount of $200 which we have "overlooked."

Such forgetfulness on our part, we would state most emphatically is not, and never has been, a part of our policy and we trust that we shall never again be accused of negligence or slackness in our attitude to business houses of such large ramifications as yours. It is on the basis of prompt and punctual reciprocation that the credit of great businesses stands and we trust that we shall continue to go forward, hand in hand, towards the achievement of an era of unexampled prosperity as indicated in our letter of the day before yesterday (ultimo, of course) and ref. A.D./1934.

Song About Sally the Cat
Sally the Cat was a prim little cat
And every inch a lady,
Her lover on the mat was the Ginger Cat,
Whose past was rather shady.
He tried all the wiles known to cats on the tiles,
But to love him couldn't force her,
Till he put the "ow" in her
"mi-ow,"
Then he was the cream in her

She said, "What is love, mi-ow!"
He said, "I will show you how-w-w."
"When I go out with a lady cat
I don't buy her this and I don't buy her that,
"But do we see life on the front

BRITAIN'S ANSWER TO SHIPPING SUBSIDIES

IMPORTANT COMMONS STATEMENT

COUNTER-MEASURES BY GOVERNMENT

UNFAIR FOREIGN COMPETITION

London, July 3. An important statement regarding the position of the British Mercantile Marine was made by the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman, in the Commons to-day.

He said the fundamental difficulties, not only of British, but of all shipping at present were the reduction in seaborne trade since 1929 and the striking increase in the Mercantile Mariner of the world since the war. Seaborne trade had fallen since 1929 by one third and was less than in 1913. On the other hand, merchant shipping had increased by about 50 per cent. since 1914. The results were seen in depressed international freight markets and in the balance sheets of shipping companies.

UNREMNERATIVE RATES.

Tramp freights stood at about three-quarters of the 1913 figure, although running costs were greatly increased. While liner freights, owing to the conference system, stood at relatively higher figures, many liners were running with empty space. In the result, cargoes were being carried on an unremunerative basis, with disastrous results to shipowners.

Very few British shipping companies were covering their running expenses, and fewer still were able to make the necessary provision for replacing their ships as they became out of date. This was not only a shipowner's problem, but concerned in particular ships' officers, engineers and seamen, as well as the nation as a whole.

If this state of affairs were due to fair competition, it might be held that the British Mercantile Marine ought to fight its own battles, as in the past, without Government aid, but this was not the case.

UNFAIR COMPETITION.

The increase in the Mercantile Mariner of some other countries had been due in large part to the stimulus of subsidies, and that financial help was still being given by many foreign countries. Other countries were, of course, free to adopt what policy they thought fit, but from the point of view of the British Mercantile Marine, competition created and maintained by Government subsidy could not be regarded as fair competition, and British shipowners were entitled to seek the help of their Government if they are not able successfully to defend themselves.

The efforts of the British Government were primarily directed to an increase of international trade. But the revival of world trade might be slow. Passenger and cargo liners were suffering from the falling off in world trade and from subsidised foreign competition. On the other hand, by means of their conference arrangements they are able, to a certain extent, to protect themselves, although it might be necessary for special measures to be taken by the Government in particular trades.

The bulk of tanker tonnage was in the hands of the big oil trading companies, and this class of tonnage had inaugurated an international plan for adjusting supply to demand. The position of coasting and near sea trades raised considerations somewhat different from those applying to ocean going shipping, and no special measures in respect of these trades were proposed at present.

GRANT FOR TRAMPS.

As to tramps, the Government were prepared to ask the House for a grant for vessels carrying tramp cargoes under tramp conditions, the subsidy to be used for defensive purposes and to cost not more than £2 million. This subsidy would be aimed at securing the abolition of foreign subsidies and greater employment of British shipping and of the seafaring classes.

Such a defensive subsidy could be given only on condition that the shipowners formulated a scheme satisfactory to the Government. Such a scheme must prevent as far as possible, the subsidy being dissipated by domestic competition of British ships carrying tramp cargoes, and ensure that it was effectively directed to securing greater employment of British

PUBLIC HEALTH & BUILDINGS

ORDINANCE REVISION IN HAND

The long overdue revision of the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance is now in hand and it is hoped that a definite outcome will be reached by the end of the year.

The revision, the Telegraph understands from an official source, is to take the form of a new set of ordinances covering the various groups of subjects contained in the existing main ordinance, which, owing to constant amending, has become unwieldy.

Drafts of the proposed new ordinances have, we understand, already been drawn up, but recent changes in connection with the Sanitary Department have necessitated a considerable delay in their adoption as so many Sanitary Department matters are involved which need careful perusal by departmental officials.

The existing Public Health and Buildings Ordinance was passed in February, 1903 for the purpose of consolidating the laws then in force relating to public health and to buildings.

tramp shipping at the expense of foreign subsidised shipping. That entailed a real measure of organisation of tramp shipping.

YEAR'S EXPERIMENT.

Such a subsidy would be given for one year only, and within that period would be subject to withdrawal if the circumstances which led to its introduction were altered. It would also be a condition that shipowners, through their international organisations and in any other ways open to them, press upon shipowners in other maritime countries the framing of proposals tending to adjust the supply of tonnage in the world to demand, and thus to raise freight rates once more to a remunerative level.

The Government would continue their efforts to secure international consideration of means to place shipping generally on an economic footing, and intended to communicate with foreign countries to ascertain their views on the possibility of international measures to facilitate the abolition or reduction of subsidies and the formulating of schemes for laying up or scrapping superfluous tonnage, or both. The task of preparing the ground for, and of formulating, such schemes must, in the first instance, fall upon the shipowners of the chief maritime countries.

In considering these problems it was essential to have the co-operation of the Dominions and India. They must bear in mind not only the position of tramp shipping, but the position in some of the great liner trades, especially those between different parts of the Empire, which were menaced by subsidised foreign competition. The Government were therefore informing the Dominions and India of the position as they saw it, and were seeking their views as to possible lines of action.

SCRAPPING NOT FAVOURED.

The Government had been prepared to place at the disposal of the shipping industry financial help on favourable terms for scrapping older British cargo tonnage and providing a smaller quantity of up-to-date cargo tonnage, either by construction of new or modernisation of existing vessels. The object was to ensure a reduction in surplus ships and to maintain the standard of efficiency of cargo fleets. There had never been any intention of compelling any shipowner to take advantage of the scheme if he did not wish to do so. Nevertheless, it had not been favourably received by shipowners. The Government were still prepared to co-operate in this matter.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS.

Various suggestions had been put forward for the assistance of British shipping by the reservation of inter-imperial trades, preferential treatment of British ships or cargoes carried in British ships in Empire ports, differential duties against foreign ships which had the benefit of Government subsidies, etc. These were all measures which had their own dangers, but they might have to be considered if the proposals now outlined did not lessen menace to the British Mercantile Marine.

In conclusion, Mr. Runciman urged the industry to make greater efforts to improve its position. British Wireless.

Naval Agreement Outlook

MR. BALDWIN STILL HOPEFUL

London, July 3. Referring in the course of a Parliamentary answer to the bilateral discussions which are proceeding preparatory to next year's Naval Conference, Mr. Stanley Baldwin said that world conditions were now, in many ways, more difficult than at the time of the London Conference.

It was, therefore, more than ever necessary to survey all the ground on which they had agreed before the conference because the deterioration of certain conditions in the world made it all more necessary. In the view of the British Government, that the conference should meet and that it should achieve some end.

Discussions were taking place and would continue between some of the participating nations, the sole object being to explore the ground so that it might be possible for the conference to meet and to have a successful issue.

Any widespread premature discussion on the tentative proposals put forward in feeling the way might very easily create such a prejudice in some countries as would entirely defeat the object at present shared by all the members of conference, which was to get together and do some good work. British Wireless.

SEAL

R.A. Losing Football Captain

SEAL LEAVING FOR HOME

(By "Veritas").

The Royal Artillery football team, who were last year robbed of several of their best players during the trouping season, are to be deprived of their captain and outside left on Sunday, when Seal, who has played on the left wing for the division team during the past two seasons, leaves for England on H.M.S. Berwick.

Seal, who played very fine football in the 1932-33 season after making his way into the first eleven, originally appeared in the second division eleven four years ago. He remained with them for two seasons and was then promoted to the seniors in view of his good form.

WON INTERPORT HONOURS.

So consistently well did he play in 1932 that he was eventually noticed by the Interport selectors who gave him his place in the team against Shanghai.

Last year with the departure of Combes, Seal was made captain of the first eleven, but the team was only a shadow of its former self, and a disappointing season was the result.

Seal, who on form is one of the best left wingers in local football, gained representative honours while in Hongkong, several times playing for the Army and United Services in charity and other matches.

He is also a track runner of distinction, and recently represented the Brigade in the annual sports meeting at Sookunpo.

Seal is leaving on Sunday to take a special gunnery course in England. It is possible that he will afterwards return to the Colony.

Jews May Compete For Germany

Assurance Given To U.S. And Britain

London. According to a statement made by the German delegates to the International Olympic Congress held at Athens, Germany will not only allow all Jews to take part in the 1936 Berlin Olympic Games and treat them on an equal footing with other competitors, but will also include in the German national team all German teams with sufficient ability to represent their country.

The question of Jewish participation was brought up by the British delegate, Lord Aberdare, and was supported by Mr. Garland, of the United States, who asked for guarantees.

It was decided that women should be allowed to compete in the athletic, skating, skiing, fencing and swimming events.

OUTPLAYED FOR THREE PARTS OF GAME

TEST NOMINEES PERFORM WELL: WINLAW'S TWO CENTURIES

MANY THREE FIGURE INNINGS IN DAY OF PROLIFIC SCORING

London, July 3.

Cricket of the most exciting character was seen at Worcester to-day, when the home team defeated Hampshire by six runs after being led by 104 on the first innings and then dismissed for the meagre score of 225 in their second knock.

Hampshire steadily obtained a firm grip on the game, and then unaccountably collapsed before the bowling of Harrison.

Hampshire were called upon to score 112 to win, but a disastrous start soon placed them in danger, and although a thrilling effort was made to snatch the runs, the Worcester attack emerged triumphant.

In addition to Harrison's brilliant bowling which won the match for Worcester, the other outstanding individual performance of the match was a century by the veteran Phillip Mead.

The whole of the first class cricket programme was featured by batting performances.

WINLAW'S TWO 100'S.

R. de W.K. Winlaw, the Cambridge batsman, achieved the notable distinction of scoring a century in both innings against Glamorgan.

Winlaw's batting has been such as to make him the outstanding 'Varsity cricketer of the season. He contributed 108 to the Cantabs' first innings aggregate of 289, and out of their second score of 266 for two, Winlaw hit up 109 not out. G.V. Parker just reached the three figure mark before dismissal.

Glamorgan easily saved by the game by leading by one run on the first innings. Duckfield hit up another century.

There was some prolific scoring in the Oxford v M.C.C. encounter. The M.C.C. initial score of 393 did not daunt the Varsity, who thanks to Tindall (113) and J.W. Seamer (105) hit up 297 in reply.

A typical Hendren-Hearne partnership in the second innings made the result a draw, the M.C.C. finishing with 265 for 4. Both the M.C.C. batsmen scored centuries.

HAMMOND BLOSSOMS OUT.

Walter Hammond came into his own for Gloucester in the opening match-of-the-Tunbridge-Wells festival, and thanks to his brilliant 290, Gloucester were able to win by an innings.

Northants scored a surprising, but none the less deserving victory over Warwickshire, which was due

Sussex lost valuable first innings points to Lancashire, Paynter celebrating his Test nomination with an innings of 157 not out. Sussex made a praiseworthy effort to beat the Lancashire total of 369, but finished 30 short. The match finally ended in a tame draw.

Yorkshire had to be satisfied with first innings points against Notts, but the match saw Bowes continue his excellent bowling form, the fast merchant taking 6 for 48. In reply to Notts' 246, Yorkshire hit up 300, and although Notts were again out for 229, time did not permit of the champions scoring an outright win.

Seats Become Priceless At Wimbledon

THOUSANDS OF POUNDS RETURNED TO WOULD-BE SPECTATORS

Wimbledon, June 27. Seats at the current Wimbledon tennis tournament are at a premium, as more than 15,000 pounds sterling, or about $75,000, was returned in advance to unsuccessful applicants for tickets for the British championships, which opened Monday.

This is 5,000 pounds more than last year and constituted a record since 1930, the first year that applicants were limited to two seats. And this year they have made books on the men's singles contenders, just as though they were race horses. One prominent firm of London bookmakers circularized its clients long in advance with the announcement it would take such bets.

This is the first time that British tennis has been deemed worthy of the attention of the betting fraternity, and tennis followers are

ENGLISH WOMEN'S CRICKET TEAM

FIFTEEN SELECTED TO PLAY IN AUSTRALIA

STRONG COMBINATION WHICH SHOULD EASILY HOLD ITS OWN

Fifteen players have been chosen by the Council of the W.C.A. to visit Australia. The team will sail in the P. and O. liner Cathay on October 19, and arrive in Fremantle on November 20.

The players are bearing the cost of the journey between England and Australia, but once they arrive in Australia they become the guests of the Australian Women's Cricket Association.

Miss Archdale has been elected captain and Miss E. Snowball vice-captain.

The chosen players are: Miss B. Archdale, Comp. Club, Kent, and South of England. Was at St. Leonard's School and is now a law student. Has travelled in Russia, Canada, and Switzerland, and was for some time the Secretary of the Six Point Group. Miss Archdale is a strong bat and keeps wicket for the Comp. Club.

Miss Burleson is a good all-round player, and is just finishing her training at the Anstey Physical Training College. She is playing for the Midlands against the North at Edgbaston on June 13.

Miss M. Hide is now at Reading University, and was at Wycombe Abbey School. She is one of the best, if not the best, all-round players in the country. She made 99 for England against the Rest last season, is a fast bowler and a brilliant deep-field. Miss Hide should certainly do extremely well on the hard wickets in Australia.

Miss M. MacLagan is now the Secretary of the Minley Manor Club, and was at the Royal School, Bath. She is a prolific but slow scorer. Her average for this season must be over 100, as she never seems to get out. As a bowler she is splendid on certain wickets, and is a great student of the game.

Miss J. E. Partridge is a good all-round player and is on the games staff at Wycombe Abbey, where the high standard of the cricket is due entirely to Miss Partridge's coaching.

Miss G. A. Morgan is the wicket-keeper and captain of the Civil Service. She was also chosen to play for the Rest last season. Miss Morgan is neat and precise and has no mannerisms behind the wicket, and her batting, if not strong, is steady.

Miss E. S. Snowball was at St. Leonard's School, Bedford P.T.C., and is now on the staff of St. Swinburn's School, Winchester.

"PLAYING AT SPORT"

Dean Inge And Instincts Of The Stone Age

Dean Inge made piquant reference to the origin of certain sport instincts when he preached at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane-street, London recently.

"Civilised people," he said, "spend much of their leisure solemnly playing at what the savage is the serious business of life—hunting, fishing, fighting. Our sports and our games—and some of our religious exercises—have never got beyond that."

"Any priest who will fish in the minds of his flock for those sublimated and unacknowledged habits of intellectual man, which were old before the Christian Church was young, will be sure of his reward—as such as it is."

"The Christian religion," he added, "looks for and tries to bring into being a new creation, not to recall into activity half-forgotten instincts that link us with the Stone Age."

Women's Last Four At Wimbledon

FOUR NATIONS REPRESENTED

Ruthless Miss Jacobs

MISS J. HARTIGAN THE NEW PERSONALITY

London, July 3.

The quarter-finals in the women's singles championship at Wimbledon were played off to-day, as a result of which the following players qualified for the semi-finals.

Miss H. Jacobs (America)
Madame S. Mathieu (France)
Miss Joan Hartigan (Australia)
Miss Dorothy Round (Britain)

Apparently Miss Jacobs will have Madame Mathieu as her opponent and Miss Round will meet Miss Hartigan, whose performances at Wimbledon, the first she has ever attended, have been particularly meritorious.

Miss Hartigan to-day accomplished the feat of eliminating Miss Margaret Scriven, holder of the French championship in a three set match.

The Australian cricketers, having finished their match with Surrey early in the afternoon, attended the All-England Club and saw their countrywomen score a very clever victory.

Miss Scriven only won the first set as a result of her tactics. She served very ineffectively, being guilty alternately of double faults and foot faults. But she discovered Miss Hartigan had a real weakness on the backhand, and on this she concentrated with success.

Miss Hartigan found her driving form in the second set, and was so powerful on the forehand that Miss Scriven was completely outplayed. In the final set the Hopman and Prens, who is the former German Davis Cup star, teaming together for the first time. They were complete masters of the English couple, beating them by three sets to one.

The scores were 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4 in favour of Hopman and Prens.—Reuter.

INVITATION TO PHILIPPINES TO SEND BOXERS TO JAPAN

Tokyo, June 26.

The All-Japan amateur boxing association voted to-day to invite the Philippines to send six boxers to Tokyo in October to compete in a tournament which is planned to be an Oriental championship affair.

Classes ranging from flyweights to middleweights have been arranged. Filipino stars of the recent tenth Far Eastern championship games at Manila are given the preference in the invitation.

Details, it is understood, are awaiting a visit to Tokyo of Mariano Sangle, Manila boxing promoter who is the president of the Philippine amateur boxing association. He trained the Filipino boxers in the Olympics.

Sangle was in Tokyo last year with boxers from the Philippines and is well known here.

Teofilo Yldefonso and Jikirim Adjaluddin, star Filipino swimmers, were invited recently to take part in the forthcoming all-Japan championship meet.

whom she beat with the loss of two games. Miss Jacobs revealed a repertoire of strokes which had American mixed tennis speed with chopping strokes and cut volleys, all of which were delivered with deadly precision.

This match lasted only 35 minutes.—Reuter.

MISS ROUND.

WIMBLEDON SHOCK

PERRY & HUGHES DEFEATED

BY HOPMAN AND PRENN

London, July 3.

Englishmen were stunned at Wimbledon to-day when Fred Perry and George Hughes, British Davis Cup pair, were beaten in the second round of the men's doubles by Harry Hopman and D. Prens.

Hopman and Prens, who is the former German Davis Cup star, teaming together for the first time. They were complete masters of the English couple, beating them by three sets to one.

The scores were 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4 in favour of Hopman and Prens.—Reuter.

MISS JACOBS.

Australian champion served brilliantly, while Miss Scriven's backhand collapsed.

MDME. MATHIEU HAPPY.

Madame Mathieu was in her happiest mood against Miss Sarah Palfrey, and staged a great comeback in the first set, which was featured by a series of baseline duels.

The Frenchwoman was the stayer of the two, although Miss Palfrey was faster. In the second set Miss Palfrey attacked very strongly and had Madame Mathieu running from side to side. The American led at 5-3, but then started to overhit and was eventually taken to 8-6 before clinching the set.

Madame Mathieu showed increasing confidence in the third set, and quickly established a good lead which had its effect on Miss Palfrey who lost her touch.

Miss Dorothy Round, the only English survivor, made a bad start against Miss. Payot of Switzerland, being led 4-2, but with her confidence gradually restored, Britain's leading player took four games in a row by means of clever shots down the side lines.

In the second set Miss Round was immeasurably superior, and going to the net as often as possible, went to her points without any difficulty.

Miss Helen Jacobs was ruthless against Franklin Cicely Aussem

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEYESTERDAY'S MARKET DULL

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was dull yesterday. The Wall Street Journal reports: "The market was very dull due to the coming holiday but prices are steady and there is a better tone, apparently due to the strength of Wheat and major commodities plus bullish business news, including June failures being far below those of last June. Both the Gold and Silver markets are upward due to traders being optimistic as regards the outlook for these metals. Communication issues caused due to the forthcoming Federal investigation of Telephone, Telegraph and Radio in connection with the proposed Control Legislation. Curb stocks and bonds were dull and irregular. The latter featured the strength of United States Government issues. German bonds rallied slightly. The Wheat market is upward due to unfavorable foreign crop reports, including focus intimation in Argentina, but profit-taking reduced gains sharply. All markets, including the foreign exchange market, will be closed tomorrow."

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz's New York office reports: "Stocks: The market is virtually at a standstill in a typical pre-holiday session. Business done: 400,000 shares. Wheat: There is a prospect of greatly increased receipts by the Trade. Sentiment is bullish and a higher market is expected shortly. Wheat is being accumulated on this decline. Cotton: The market is firm. The light rainfall in Texas gave little benefit. There was moderate Trade demand and recent sellers are covering. Spots are dull but the basis is strong. Rubber: Strong in sympathy with primary markets, together with the smaller Malayan shipments for June. Sugar: The market was dull but steady, awaiting developments in Washington regarding the Cuban duty. Dow-Jones Averages:

CROWD WAITS HOURS TO SEE HITLER

Berlin, July 3. The popularity of Chancellor Hitler is undiminished. This fact was demonstrated to-day when huge crowds fought their way into the Wilhelmstrasse and held back by armed police, waited for hours until Hitler appeared at a window to salute a passing platoon. General Goering stood beside him and they watched the unit swinging past. As they saluted a thunderous "hell" ascended and the crowd dispersed.—Reuter Special.

PRINCE'S DEATH

HENRY OF HOLLAND DIES
SUDDENLY

The Hague, July 3. The Prince Consort of Holland, Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, died suddenly to-day.—Reuter. Nation Shocked. The Hague, July 3. Holland was shocked to-day by the news of the death of the Prince Consort, husband of Queen Wilhelmina. The Prince died shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon following a recent fainting fit. Heart disease was the cause of death. His Majesty had been ailing for some time past; but his death was unexpected. He had lately been showing signs of improvement and this morning was much stronger. Early in the day his condition was reported as quiet, though he had spent a restless night. Queen Wilhelmina hurriedly returned to the capital during the week-end when she learned, in Switzerland, of the Prince's recent fainting spell. Princess Juliana, Their Majesties' only child, is due to return here from London to-morrow.—United Press. Queen Wilhelmina came to the throne in 1890, the daughter of King William III, and married Prince Henry soon afterwards.

PIRACY PROBLEM

REAL BUCCANEERS MUST ROB VICTIMS

London, July 3. Posers were levelled from Bench to-day when Sir L. Scott, on behalf of the Gold Secretary, was arguing that piracy was necessary to combat piracy. The Lord Chancellor, sitting with five judges, in the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council put a hypothetical case forward. Persons, he suggested, might steal a ship and kill everybody, steal nothing. Would this be piracy? Sir Leslie Scott replied that deduced from the argument, this was not piracy according to the law of the nations. Lord Atkin asked: "And what if the ship were shot below the waterline and sunk, but nothing stole?" Sir Leslie fell back on authority to show that robbery was essential concomitant of piracy.—Reuter.

DON'T BLAME EVOLUTION

(Continued from Page 6.) can make it that as far as we know the intermediate types no existed. Precisely the same is true of "evolution" of mind from matter. It may be true, but the facts suggest the direct opposite. When over man's remains appear in geological record, we find that is already man, surrounded by arts and crafts. Now, this is a mere chance—but what, betting parlance, are the odds? Measure for yourself the immense gap between the human and that of the animals. There was evolution from one to the other we should expect to find a vast range of human remains dating from the pre-thinking stage—men divorced, like the animals from all arts and crafts and too just animals in human form. Such remains have ever been found. This, again, does not mean the theory of Evolution is false, it does mean that as far as we know it is false. It is time that the public know the truth, and more than time that the politicians ceased to cite an ingenious guess in support of wild-cat schemes which depend for their success on the assumption that human nature is in a constant state of change and development.

FORCIBLE ATTEMPT TO OPEN UP PORT AT SAN FRANCISCO

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

AMERICAN CLUB RECEPTION

AMOROUS SPEECH BY CONSUL

The anniversary of the American Declaration of Independence was fittingly celebrated to-day by the local American community by a reception at the American Club which was attended by over 100 guests. In the absence of the Consul General, Mr. Douglas Jenkins, who this morning took up his appointment as Consul at Boston, the guests were received by Mr. H. Courloy, Acting Consul General, Mr. J. A. Shaw, chairman of the Fourth of July Committee, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Benson. The rooms of the Club were tastefully decorated for the occasion in American Stars and Stripes and other national flags. The action was a great success.

CONSUL'S SPEECH

Proposing the health of His Majesty the King, Mr. Courloy said:—The last time many of us met in these Club rooms was to say farewell to Consul-General Jenkins. Perhaps no one here missed him more than those of us who had the pleasure of working with him in the same office. I especially regret that he slipped out of the harbour on the morning of the fourth of July. Speech-making is not fun. After Mr. Jenkins, like a little bell might ring which must tinkle after London's Big Ben has sounded. (Laughter.) I shall say only a few words, probably the less I talk, the less shall be found out. It does not say to say too much. An Irishman found that out when he took his best girl for a motor ride. After they had gone some distance, he finally said "Bridget, will you marry me?" "Sure, Pat, will," they rode on. Nothing more was said for some five minutes. Then ten minutes, Bridget said "Aren't you going to say anything more to me?" and Pat replied "Perhaps, Bridget, have said too much already." (Laughter.)

On our national holiday we Americans do not celebrate any victory over the British. We commemorate to-day the signature of a declaration of human rights of the same general type for which the English barons struggled at Runnymede.

SHORTS AND LONGS.

In England, the American colonies, and France, the great struggles against oppression have occurred in hot weather (laughter). In the summer of 1215, the English barons got warmed up about their rights; in the summer of 1776 the American colonists became heated about their liberties; and in the summer of 1934 the inhabitants of Hongkong exchanged hot words about women's shorts and longs (laughter). Back in 1215 at Runnymede, the angry barons went into King John's very presence and extorted from him the Magna Carta. He knew they meant business because he could see them—(laughter). In 1776, in the days of the slow sailing vessels that took many weeks and even months to cross the seas, the protests of the American colonists sounded to many persons in England as unimportant as the buzzing of petty insects. Distance and slow communication led to misunderstanding. To-day rapid communication brings the great English speaking nations ever closer and closer together. The American talks and the English news reels are teaching us to understand one another.

"COME UP AND SEE ME"

When I walk the streets of Hongkong, I hear people say "Come up and see me sometime" (loud laughter). It can be English-English but it may be Western American—(laughter).

Most Englishmen know that no animals are being traded, when an American wife passes the buck to her husband and gets his goat—(laughter). Few Americans to-day are like one American woman who reads in the papers that an Englishwoman had lost three hundred pounds in one afternoon at a place she pronounced Derby. "Sakes alive—I don't believe any woman could be so fat!" (Laughter).

Through the news reel we see English Royal Family and hear them speak. We feel that we know them and that they are friends. Some time ago, throughout America we read with sympathetic interest reports about the King's illness and rejoiced at his almost mira-

Voices of the English Royal Family are becoming as familiar to the farmers of the Dakotas as the voices of their nearest neighbours. In proposing the toast of the prosperity of the United States of America, H. E. Major General O. C. Borrett said the British community in Hongkong regretted the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jenkins just as much as the American community. He wished success to the Acting Consul-General.

While the wrangle over settlement of the Pacific coast longshoremen's strike goes on, over fifty ships in San Francisco alone remain tied up at piers or in midstream. Panorama of the silent, almost dead, San Francisco waterfront above gives graphic idea of the paralysis of one of the Pacific coast's greatest industries. A like situation exists in Portland, San Pedro and Seattle, Wash.

VIOLENT RIOTS ON WATERFRONT

SAN FRANCISCO WAR FLARES UP IN FIERCE FIGHTING

San Francisco, July 3.

The bitter war that was threatened when San Francisco industrialists rejected the demands of the striking longshoremen last week and announced their intention of attempting forcibly to open the port, flared up to-day in scenes of unparalleled violence.

Forcible opening of the port was attempted tentatively by the loading up of two lorries by "blackleg" workers, and a rush of the lorries at the pickets at high speed, in an effort to break through by imperilling the lives of anyone who made to interfere.

Violent fighting between the police and the strikers occurred when the longshoremen braved the danger, boarded the racing lorries and brought them to a standstill, the drivers being badly beaten up.

POLICE AND STRIKERS IN DESPERATE CONFLICT

Rioting on a big scale developed soon after the attack on the drivers of the two lorries which had been driven furiously from the pier in a desperate effort to re-open the port. Hundreds of armed police were rushed to the scene to the rescue of the drivers and a brutal combat followed.

BOMB BARRAGE.

The Police resorted to the use of tear-gas bombs and fired shots over the heads of the rioters, who fought them with clubs and iron bars.

Some of the rioters caught the bombs in the air and threw them back into the ranks of the police and also subjected the police to a heavy bombardment from stones.

SCORES UNCONSCIOUS.

The police then indulged in a series of baton charges in which scores of rioters were knocked out and left on the ground unconscious. In spite of heavy losses, the longshoremen strikers continued to fight furiously and it was not until the police had opened tearing blasts of fire into the ranks of the strikers with riot guns that the rioters were finally driven back.

The wild scenes conform to predictions of probabilities as the result of the exacerbation of feeling among the longshoremen, who have now been out for two months, by the Industrial Association's flat rejection last week of the modified terms of the strikers.

EMPLOYERS' STAND.

The employers insist on acceptance of the proposal for settlement that was tentatively approved by the workers' union leaders and employers and then repudiated by the men.

The longshoremen have thrown over their leaders and appointed a Committee of Ten from the Charles Cheong, of 29 Bonham Road, was also fined $10 on a similar summons.

Cheong stated that the dealer from whom he had bought the set had undertaken to get everything fixed up.

MORE MONEY FOR POOR BOX

SEIZED IN GAMBLING RAIDS

A gambling raid, conducted by Detective-Sergeant F. W. Fowle and a party of police, on the second floor of No. 41 Graham Street, yielded $23.40 table money, which has been added to the funds of the Poor Box.

Chung Pui, pleaded guilty to being the keeper of a pai-kau school and was fined $50 or one month's hard labour in default, while another man who admitted gambling was fined three dollars. Thirteen absentees had their bail of $3 each estreated.

As the result of a complaint from the Bank, Det-Sergt. Fowle and party conducted a raid in the yard in Queen's Building yesterday and arrested 11 Chinese on a charge of gambling at pai-kau. Three of them appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning, and were fined $3 each, while the absentees forfeited bail of $3 each.

The money picked up, $2.40, was placed in the Poor Box.

The Cabinet is meeting again tomorrow afternoon and it is stated in authoritative quarters that General Goering is most likely to be Captain von Papen's successor. The Ministry of Propaganda informed the United Press that forty-six had been executed up to late yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon.

VON PAPEN ALLY SHOT.

No official list of the names has been issued but it is learned that Edgar Jung, close associate of Captain von Papen, was among those executed.

Edgar Jung was arrested by the secret police last week, before the Hitler swoop. It appears that he was responsible for the collection of the material upon which the Vice-Chancellor based his Neudeck criticism of the Nazi regime. It is also alleged that Jung made derogatory remarks about Hitler. It is also significant that although Captain von Papen and Hitler ostensibly patched up their differences last week, von Papen was unable to secure the release of Jung.

CATHOLIC VICTIM.

Another victim was Gustav von Kahr, Catholic leader in Munich. It is reliably learned, too, that Colonel von Bredon, General von Schleicher's former chief lieutenant, was shot during the weekend.—United Press.

Berlin, July 3. The only interesting revelation in the official communiqué which was issued at the conclusion of a prolonged Cabinet meeting, was that Herr Hitler informed the Cabinet that lightning action had been necessary.

If it had not been taken, there would have been danger to the State and many thousands of lives lost.

FORTY-SIX EXECUTED.

The Minister of Defence thanked Herr Hitler for his courageous act and for saving the country from civil war. He reaffirmed the complete loyalty of the Cabinet.

An official list of those executed is to be published shortly. It is learned that it will contain forty-six names.—Reuter.

EXTRADITION CASE.

CHINESE WANTED FOR KWANGTUNG CRIME

Proceedings during the hearing of an extradition case at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon were delayed for ten minutes while a search was made for two essential documents, one an order from His Excellency the Governor in the case of Leung Shu-fan, alias Leung Kit-man, and the other a certificate from the Colonial Secretary bearing the name Lam Wan-kai, as head of the Provincial Government, Kwangtung. The papers were located and the case proceeded.

The case in question recalled a robbery in the Yeung Chun district, in the village of Kau Kong, on January 25, 1930, when an armed gang of over 30 men, of which the fugitive was the alleged leader, robbed a shop master of $5,000 in Canton bank notes and $2,000 in silver. The fugitive, Leung Shu-fan, was arrested on a warrant at No. 11 Salkung Road, ground floor, Kowloon City, on June 6 this year.

The case was heard by Mr. Hamilton. The Crown case was conducted by Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, with Chief Detective Inspector Shannon in charge of investigations. Mr. J. B. Prentis, of Messrs Hastings and Co., appeared for the defence.

Threatening Letter.

Mr. Fraser said that the case was under the Chinese Extradition Ordinance No. 7 of 1889. He had to prove the requisition order from the Chinese Government, the fact that the accused was the "wanted" man, and sufficient evidence to make a prima facie case for a crime of a similar nature in this Colony. The fugitive was wanted by the Chinese authorities in Kwangtung for robbery.

Some time before the actual appearance of the accused a letter was sent to the master of the Man On fertilizer shop in the Kau Kong district asking for a sum of $5,000. No payment was made. There was no evidence that the letter came from the accused or that he wrote it, but Mr. Fraser said he tendered the letter as a motive for the robbery.

A gang of robbers, led by the accused, and armed with mousers, pistols and Lewis guns, broke into the house, which had been barred in anticipation of the occurrence. The accused had been in Hong-kong for over a year.

The first witness, Mr. D. Davies, Chief Clerk at the Colonial Secretary's Office, deposed to the requisition order which he received on August 16, 1933, after it had been to Government House and other departments for translation. Fung Shu-king, translator at the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, testified to the translation.

Defence Objection.

At this stage, Mr. Fraser said he wished to tender the letter which had been sent to the master of the shop, but his friend objected.

Mr. Prentis: If the document can be proved I have no objection. Mr. Fraser: It is a question of the admissibility of the document. I do not want to put it in, but am merely tendering it. I cannot prove it.

Mr. Prentis: Then I must strongly object.

His Worship: It seems to me the point is this. It can be given in evidence that the complainant did receive this letter. It may be admissible that the letter was received, but that does not mean to say that the letter was written by the accused.

Mr. Fraser: I don't want it said against me that I have tried to withhold anything. He received a letter and that is as far as I can say. I am not trying to put it in; I am merely tendering it.

His Worship agreed with Mr. Prentis, said that he had no idea as to how long the accused had been in Hongkong.

Mr. Prentis: I think the prosecution will admit that he has

PUBLIC HEALTH.

NEW LEGISLATION TO BE INTRODUCED SHORTLY

At yesterday's meeting of the Sanitary Board the President, Mr. R. A. D. Forrest, commenting on a letter from the Government relative to the fees for special food licences in the Tai Hang, North Point and Shaokwan districts, said that a new set of ordinances to replace the existing Public Health and Buildings Ordinance was under consideration. As it was difficult to any when the ordinances would be ready, Government had decreed that the alteration in the fees should wait, in order to avoid unnecessary legislation prior to the new ordinance.

The remainder of the business transacted was purely formal.

There were present Mr. R. A. D. Forrest (president), Dr. J. M. Gray (M. D. H.), Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. G. J. Roe (secretary) and Mr. Im Ping-toung (assistant secretary).

been here for eighteen months. Mr. Fraser: I don't want to contest that.

Papers Missing.

The Assistant Attorney General then proceeded to put in the order from H. E. the Governor, directed to Mr. W. Schofield, Police Magistrate, and dated August 17, 1933, and the certificate from the Colonial Secretary, of like date, but the originals could not be found, then.

His Worship adjourned the Court for ten minutes. The necessary papers were traced, and, when the Court resumed, Mr. W. M. Thomson, Magistrate's Clerk, deposed to their production.

Master's Story.

Yung Ching-nam, master of the Man On fertilizer shop, Tin Tong Market, Sunning district, and now living at No. 81, Connaught Road Central, recognized the accused as the leader of the robber gang. Accused used to live at Tin Tong village, Sunning district. He knew him for seven or eight years.

Witness continued: He got his living as a bandit. On January 16, 1930, I returned to my village at Kau Kong. I received a black-mailing letter, which was brought by Leung Wai-ying and Leung Kwai-fan, who are also bandits and belong to the accused's village. I took no action on the letter. On January 25, a gang of over thirty men, led by the defendant, robbed me at my house at Kau Kong. It was about noon. I first saw the robbers when I was standing at my door. They were coming from the east. When I saw them coming I ran into my house and closed the door. In the house were Leung Hon-chung, Yeung Leung-shan, my adopted father, my two mothers, my wife and younger brother. The robbers forced open the door and came in. The defendant directed his men to ransack the place. They were armed with mousers, pistols and Lewis guns and some of them carried firearms on their backs. The fugitive carried a mousers pistol on his back and held a Lewis gun in his hand.

The Magistrate: It sounds the wrong way about. Witness: After the men broke into the house, they ransacked. We were not allowed to move. They robbed quite openly, and they stole $5,000 in Canton bank notes and $2,000 in silver from my cubicle. The money was mine and was used as capital in my business. The robbers stayed in the house for about half-an-hour.

Replying to Mr. Fraser, the witness stated he had had warning of the robbery as he had previously received the blackmailing letter. After the robbers left, witness made a report at the Village Guards Bureau, Kau Kong, and also at the Yeung Chun Magistrate.

After further testimony was given the hearing was adjourned.

children and the scream of taxi brakes. A city apartment in a desolate place of a summer evening.

Gypsy felt it now as never before. After she had got the baby to bed she sat quite alone in the living room, watching the shadows creep slowly up the wall of the courtyard opposite.

"What am I going to do?" she asked herself over and over again. "What am I going to do?"

She glanced at the clock. It was half-past 7. There was still time for Tom to return. Every step in the hall might be his. Every hurrying taxi below in the street might be bringing him, pent and loving. But she waited long and hope died.

There was one more course open to her now. She might call the office—very often the men worked late in this season—and ask for him. At least then she would know where she stood. Her pride balked at the notion, but anxiety triumphed and at last she gave the number and sat tensely waiting.

There was no answer from the general switchboard, but she had expected that. The operators did not work after 6 o'clock. A long, persistent buzzing. Finally a receiver, somewhere in the great bare stretch of offices, was lifted and a muffled voice said, "Hello."

Gypsy could hear her heart pounding, pounding. The voice was not Tom's. "Is Mr. Weaver there?"

A pause and the unseen speaker shouted to someone in the room. "How about Weaver? See him any place?"

Gypsy waited. It seemed to her she lived a year in those few seconds.

The voice came close again. "Sorry," it said. "He seems to have lit out."

"Thank you!"

"Any message?"

"No, there's none." She was just about to ring off when the voice said quickly, "Hold on, they say he's—what's that? Oh, yes, he's gone out of town. Don't know when he'll be back."

Berlin, July 3.

One of the questions being most often asked in Germany to-day is, "Will Britain go Fascist?"

In the last issue of the monthly, Europäische Revue, two articles were devoted to this question.

The one, written by the British Fascist writer, Mr. W. E. D. Allen, concentrates upon the economic aspect of the problem of Fascism, while the other, the author of which is the editor of Europäische Revue, Prince Karl Anton Rohan, deals with the struggle between Fascism and liberalism.

"Fascism," Mr. Allen declares, "involves an extraordinary economic transformation, which, if successful, is bound to alter the foundations of international trade and to bring about a profound change in the mutual relations of independent nations."

"European countries, including Britain," he adds, "cannot afford to maintain an economic system which more and more turns out to be inefficient, or a political system which, great as its merits may have been in the past, now is seen to be antiquated and incapable of retaining the confidence of nations which are to operate it."

ENGLISH LIBERALISM.

The article of Prince Rohan focuses attention on the decline of British liberalism.

"English liberalism," the Prince writes, "is more deeply rooted in the people's character than any form of continental liberalism. However, even in England, liberalism is becoming more and more an affair of high bourgeoisie and of intellectuals. The masses are deserting it."

"The question whether England will become Fascist," he concludes, "cannot now be answered, especially by a foreigner. However, it is an impressive enough symptom that this question can be asked at all."—United Press.

ABYSSINIA STRUTS

ITALY LOSING PATIENCE

TRADE DISPUTE

London, July 4.

The Rome correspondent of the Morning Post states that differences between Italy and Abyssinia have now reached a critical stage, owing to the fact that despite Abyssinia's obligation to give preferential concessions to the Italian port of Assab in Italian Eritrea, all trade hitherto has been directed to other nations, principally Japan.

Meanwhile, Abyssinia insists that Italy shall allow Abyssinian trade facilities at the port.

The Abyssinians are reported to be adopting a menacing attitude. They are openly importing small arms and war material from Europe and the Far East, and Ethiopian tribes are being given field training.

Negotiations are proceeding in the hope of securing an amicable settlement.—Reuter.

The body of a Chinese woman was yesterday found washed ashore at Pak Sha Wan. It was identified as that of Kwok Choy who was, previously reported as missing from a houseboat. Murder is suspected.

It is rumoured in some quarters that behind these incidents there is a plan for establishing policing rights at Hongkew by the Japanese.—Central News.

A coolie woman, Lam Kow, was fatally injured in a fall at a quarry at Lyceum, yesterday, succumbing in the evening at the Government Civil Hospital.

HONGKEW RIOTS

WARNING TO UNRULY JAPANESE

DEPORTATION THREATS

Shanghai, July 4.

A threat to deal very severely with unruly elements among the Japanese community in Shanghai is made by the Japanese Consul-General, Mr. Ishii, in a statement on the recent international incidents.

The Consul-General refers to the assaults on foreigners in Hongkew and gives warning that sharp action will follow repetition.

Meanwhile, twenty-five Japanese have been called before Japanese Consular officials for questioning and seven of them were still under detention last night.

It is understood that they will be deported to Japan if it is found that they were implicated in the riots.—Reuter.

Shanghai, July 3.

Closely following the incident at Quinsan Gardens, in which Mr. A. Thompson was assaulted, another incident occurred last night at Hongkew when a French sailor was molested by Japanese.

Fortunately, the incident did not develop seriously.

It is rumoured in some quarters that behind these incidents there is a plan for establishing policing rights at Hongkew by the Japanese.—Central News.
